Federal Arbitration Of Cotton Strike Is Assured

STRIKERS IN VALLEY TOLD TO RETURN

Growers and Pickers Will Share in Increases in Price of Product, Said

FUNERALS ARE HELD

Men Killed in Rioting in Early Part of Week Are Buried; Jury in Report

BULLETIN
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—(UP)—George Creel, who entered the cotton strike as a representative of the federal government today announced "the strike is over."
"There was some dispute by the growers as to the personnel of the arbitration board selected by Governor Rolph, but that has been settled," Creel said.

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 14.—(UP)—Immediate arbitration of the cotton pickers' strike in the San Joaquin valley appeared likely today through announcement of a federal conciliator that ranchers were willing to accept mediation under the "Arizona plan."

A board named by Governor Rolph may be used as the medium for settling the bitter wage dispute. This board included Archbishop E. J. Hanna, San Francisco; Prof. O. K. McMurray, University of California, and Dr. Tully Knodes, College of Pacific, Stockton. It was indicated that the board would be made to the governor's committee.

Edward Fitzgerald, federal conciliator, called on strikers to return to work after reporting that the ranch owners had stopped opposition to outside mediation. Fitzgerald said the settlement plan found effective in Arizona would be recommended here.

60 Cents Basis
Under this plan the wage scale was based on 60 cents per hundredweight but provision was made for growers and pickers to share in increases in the price of cotton.

The funerals of two slain cotton pickers, whose deaths may cause international involvements, gave labor leaders an opportunity to infuse new life into their strike movement that appeared sullen. Demonstrations were arranged to coincide with the burial of Delfino Davila, Mexican consular agent, and Dolores Hernandez, who were killed in bitter rioting between striking pickers and farmer vigilantes at Pixley.

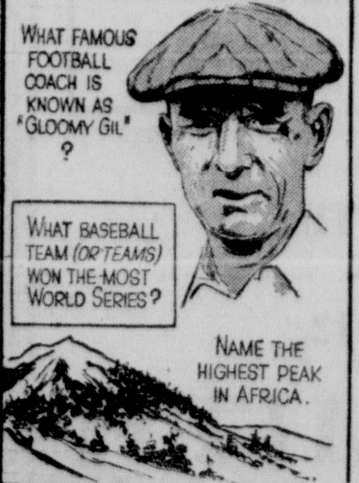

Although "eye witnesses" of the fatal melee were almost unanimous in blaming the farmers for not only starting the riot but also during the only shooting in the mixup, a coroner's jury returned an open verdict that angered the strikers. The witnesses blamed men now under arrest.

Open Verdict
The jury reported that Davila and Hernandez came to their deaths "as the result of gunshot wounds inflicted by a person or persons not known to this jury."

Al Smith, gigantic negro whose hair was turning snow-white, gave a version of the Pixley affair with which the striking workmen agreed. He told of a meeting addressed by Pat Chambers, now held on criminal syndicalism charges. During the gathering farmers entered the town in automobiles and announced they were out to "get Chambers."

COUNTY LEGION OBJECTS TO SPEAKERS ON OPEN FORUM

ANNUAL CHEST DRIVE TO OPEN HERE MONDAY

Two Hundred Workers Will Start Out in Effort to Raise $33,500

THE 1933 APPEAL to meet the human needs of Santa Ana by pledges to the Community Chest reaches its intensive phase on Monday when a small army of workers will add their efforts to those of five departmental organizations which are now functioning.

Eighty team members under 20 captains start business district solicitation Monday, while more than 100 of the Women Crusaders meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. for the "opening gun" of the drive in the residential section. It was announced at Chest headquarters.

The goal is $33,500. Effort to more emphatically direct the public's attention to the campaign continues with observance of Community Chest Sunday in most of the churches of the city. Special announcement and comment will be made to nearly every church congregation tomorrow. Today billboard posters went into place at four different points in Santa Ana proclaiming the October 16 to 23 campaign. Billboards are being placed through cooperation of the Outdoor Advertising Association and the National Council of Community Chests, with the Foster-Kleiser company providing the display spaces in Santa Ana without cost.

"Too much stress cannot be placed on the 'human needs' slogan of the Chest campaign," said W. K. Hillyard, acting president of the Community Chest today. "A human need may be a meal, or it may be any one of many things. Chest agencies provide meals and lodgings for the unfortunate and jobless; clothes, bedding and cloth by adding Red Cross distribution; care of orphans and of unfortunate girls; a helping hand to needy service men and their families. Chest service also sustains home ties, it takes care of leisure hours for boys and girls and builds for the future. A Chest agency supplies milk and bread to families. Others seek to give physical training, character guidance, social and educational direction. All are meeting human needs," Hillyard concluded.

HOLLYWOOD EXTRAS GETTING MORE WORK

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14.—(UP)—The Blue Eagle of the NRA has been a considerable bird to Hollywood's army of motion picture extras.

The largest number of extras in seven years was employed last month, according to Jack L. Warner, chairman of the state recovery board. Eight major studios and the central casting bureau filled 39,762 roles with extras during the month, netting them earnings of $339,159.

The number compared with 34,005 placements in August. Warner also reported a 100 per cent gain since June 1 of regular studio employees. The figures were 8872 in June and 15,314 in September. A payroll increase of $505,500.

CROFTON AND WIFE PLAN FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(UP)—A property settlement between Mona Rico, Mexican film actress, and her wealthy sportsman-husband, James N. Crofton, today was believed a preliminary detail to a divorce.

Her attorney announced the property settlement was agreeable to both but declared that "whether a divorce action will be filed will be determined later." A divorce has been rumored for months. Miss Rico gave up her screen career when she married Crofton in July, 1932.

Brazen Thief Takes Spares Off Police Car

Disregarding the fact that he was stealing from the police commissioner of Santa Ana, a thief last night took two spare tires from the automobile of Councilman E. G. Warner, 1516 Willets street, while Warner was enjoying the football game at the Municipal Bowl. Wise crackers have suggested that Warner might put a sign on his car to warn prospective thieves or take along an officer to guard the tires. At any rate, something ought to be done to protect police officials from petty thievery.

FINDS BOMB IN PLANE CAUSED BIG EXPLOSION

Deaths of Seven Persons on Transport Blamed on Time Explosive

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—(UP)—A bomb or other high explosive wrecked the transport plane that plunged seven persons to death near Chesterton, Ind., Tuesday night, reports of two official investigations said today.

Explosion of "something" in the baggage compartment, either by design or by accident, wrecked the plane in midair and sent it rocketing to earth, department of justice and united air lines reports stated.

Previously Carl Davis, Indiana coroner who conducted an inquest, and experienced airplane pilots who viewed the wreckage, had expressed the opinion the huge airliner was "bombed."

Witnesses at the inquest testified an explosion in midair preceded the crash. The tail of the twin-motored ship was torn off and flung to earth a mile from where the plane crashed.

Melvin H. Purvis, department of justice agent, announced a detailed investigation led him to a "positive belief something foreign to the airplane exploded." He was not certain as to the type of explosive.

It may have been caused by a time bomb placed in the plane to explode en route from Cleveland to Chicago, or it may have been caused by a bottle of nitroglycerine in the baggage, Purvis said.

D. B. Colyer, vice president of United Air Lines, which operated the ship, issued a statement saying he was convinced by exhaustive laboratory tests at Northwestern university that a high explosive caused the tragedy.

Several theories regarding the possible motive for wrecking the plane have been advanced, but none given official credence. Murder for revenge, suicide and anarchy are not borne out by known facts, Colyer said.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio, Oct. 14.—(UP)—A 42-year-old mother who killed a medicine show owner, then drove all day with his body hidden in a rear compartment of the show bus, was arrested and told her weird story to police here today.

The woman, Mrs. Eva Timmer of Powhatan Point, O., abandoned the body in a ditch near here.

Big Airship Passes Over Lordsburg, N. M., Just Before Noon

BULLETIN
SAN DIEGO, Oct. 14.—(UP)—The navy dirigible, Macon, will arrive over San Diego about 8 p. m. today, communications office of the eleventh naval district announced today. Messages did not say whether the ship would stop at Camp Kearny, near here, or continue to Sunnyvale.

LORDSBURG, N. M., Oct. 14.—(UP)—The naval airship, Macon, passed over Lordsburg at 11:43 a. m. (m.s.t.) today and continued westward.

BULLETIN
DEMING, N. M., Oct. 14.—(UP)—The U. S. Macon, flying to its Pacific coast base at Sunnyvale, Calif., passed over Deming at 9 a. m. (m.s.t.) today.

Favorable weather conditions faced the huge dirigible on its path across New Mexico and southern Arizona, weather bureau officials forecasting clear skies and good visibility.

MIDLAND, Tex., Oct. 14.—(UP)—The navy dirigible Macon enroute to Sunnyvale, Calif., soared over the Guadalupe mountains at dawn today after skirting a severe west Texas storm.

Weather reports relayed to the Macon from the U. S. signal corps station here indicated flying conditions over the mountainous region to El Paso were favorable, the thunderstorms having passed northeasterly and out of the ship's course.

Earlier, storms of considerable intensity were reported west of here. Static conditions were favorable, and some electrical display thereafter.

The Macon left Lakehurst, N. J., Thursday for the Pacific maneuvers and her new base at Sunnyvale, Calif.

Commander Alger R. Dressel advised the radio station here that the delay largely was "precautionary" Serg. Joseph Capriotti said. The station was in constant communication with the ship.

At 5:22, the craft reported its position over Toyah, 30 miles west of Pecos.

The Macon arrived over Midland waiting for dawn and improved visibility before heading at 2:15 and idled over the town two westward.

STUDENT BLINDED IN FOOTBALL RALLY

COLTON, Cal., Oct. 14.—(UP)—A San Bernardino high school student faced a possible life of blindness today and three companions suffered gunshot wounds as result of an incipient riot between rival gridiron factions.

Hugh Johnson, 17, was blinded in one eye by a shotgun charge fired, police said, by a band of Colton high school students into a delegation of San Bernardino high school pupils. The attackers fired when the visitors stormed a woodpile being prepared in anticipation of a home town football victory.

Physicians said Johnson may lose the sight of his other eye. His companions were not seriously wounded. No arrests were made.

BREA, Oct. 14.—Francis Blystone, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Blystone, sustained a broken leg in a fall from a bicycle yesterday afternoon. Francis was riding behind John Schunk on the latter's wheel when the rack broke off and he was thrown to the pavement.

Free Speech Defenders Draw Fire

Council Resolution, However, Expresses Belief in Free Speech

A RESOLUTION intended to discourage the staging of open forum meetings in Orange county for free and open discussions of economic and social problems was adopted by the Orange County Council, American Legion, at Dana Point last night.

The resolution named the Orange County Forum and stated that "the practice of bringing such radical speakers into Orange county, particularly in the schools, be disapproved and that this council urges those in authority in our schools to discontinue the encouragement and sponsorship of such speakers."

Adoption of the resolution followed a heated verbal battle, in which the adoption of two other resolutions, said to have been directed at certain persons in the county, was prevented by vote of the council in refusing to allow them to be read.

Judge J. B. Tucker, Santa Ana junior past commander, appointed a special resolutions committee of one to act on the resolutions, presented by Dr. John Waters of Anaheim, recommended that the two other resolutions not be read. His recommendation was followed in a split vote.

Following adoption of the resolution, Judge Tucker declared that he should have opposed adoption of the resolution, because he believed in free speech. Jack Phillips, Brea, newspaper man, said he was against passing the resolution last night.

Adopt Resolution
Adoption of the resolution followed the reading of a lengthy report by Dr. Waters, in which he flayed what he termed the bringing of radical speakers to this community.

The entire action apparently

United States Alarmed At German Action

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Germany's announcement of withdrawal from the world disarmament conference and the League of Nations was viewed by officials here today as virtual defeat for the strenuous disarmament efforts of the last two years.

Secretary Hill, alarmed by the crisis, called in Undersecretary Phillips and J. Pierpont Moffat, chief of the state department's European section, to consider the situation.

ROOSEVELT IN TALK ASSAILS IMPERIALISM

Desires for Expansion and Domination Hit at in Radio Address

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(UP)—President Roosevelt assailed "imperialistic desires for expansion and domination" as threatening the peace of the world in a nationwide address last night.

The United States has no such desires, he said. His speech was transmitted to the women's conference on current problems in New York.

"The United States does not seek to annex Canada, or any part thereof, to annex Mexico or any part thereof, or to annex Cuba or any part thereof," Mr. Roosevelt declared.

"The very great majority of the inhabitants of the world feel the same as we do about territorial expansion or getting rich or powerful at the expense of their neighbors."

"It is only in the case of such people in the world as still have imperialistic desires for expansion and domination in their minds or in their hearts that threats to world peace lie."

Turning from this theme, the president urged the restoration of "the useful functions of education."

He deplored as "economic waste" the surplus of "so-called qualified teachers," and said "even today we are turning out too many new teachers each year."

It goes without saying," he declared, "that the quality of our teaching can be definitely and distinctly raised."

PRODUCERS TO REJECT CODE
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14.—(UP)—The proposed motion picture code will be rejected by a majority of the producers themselves, Eddie Cantor, president of the Screen Actors' Guild, predicted today. Cantor said after a private poll of producers, that the code in its present form was unsatisfactory to most of them as well as to the artists.

LETUCE SHIPPERS IN DRASTIC MOVE

SALINAS, Cal., Oct. 14.—(UP)—Letuce shippers in the Salinas-Watsonville district today threatened to hire strike-breakers to permit resumption of packing activities which a wage dispute halted.

The shippers claimed their only profits "in three years" were endangered by the strike of about 2500 packers and trimmers who demanded 75 cents and 50 cents an hour, respectively, 15-cent increases above the present scale.

The strikers at a meeting here rejected proposals to submit the wage differences to a mediator or to a committee of three arbitrators, one of whom would be neutral. In a previous meeting the packers turned down a compromise proposal which offered them a five-cent increase over the present hourly scale.

RETIREMENT FROM ARMS CONFERENCE ANNOUNCED IN DECREE BY HITLER

Von Hindenburg Calls for Special Election to Be Held on Nov. 12

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Germany, angry and steeling herself to any consequences, announced today her withdrawal from the League of Nations and the World Disarmament conference.

At the same time she announced her willingness to destroy her last machine gun and demolish her last soldier if other nations would do likewise.

President Von Hindenburg at once decreed the dissolution of the present Reichstag and proclaimed a new general parliamentary election for November 12, to obtain the nation's approval of the decision.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler, in a proclamation to the people, said: "The government asks the nation: Does the nation agree with this policy of its government? Is the nation ready solemnly to endorse it as its own opinion and its own will?"

It was announced a national plebiscite would be held, simultaneously with the parliamentary election, in which the nation would be asked whether it endorsed the government policy or withdrawal from the league and the arms conference.

Even before the question had reached the public, it seemed to be answered affirmatively.

Crowds Celebrate
The moment the news reached the city, crowds began turning out from the Unter den Linden, Berlin's principal boulevard. Patriotic demonstrations were organized spontaneously. Marchers formed into the ranks familiar in the World war, and Nazi brass bands turned out to lead parades of Hitler youths.

The gravity of the situation was emphasized by the disclosure that when it took its decision at a cabinet meeting this morning it did so with full knowledge of a new disarmament conference and the possible resumption of the bitterest armaments race in history.

Simon and Davis, believing the fate of the disarmament conference depended on breaking the German-French deadlock on the question of German rearmament or allied disarmament, drafted the speech together.

But they did not inform Germany of it, so far as could be learned here.

The cabinet was informed of Simon's speech immediately after its delivery, and decided at once to withdraw both from the league and the conference.

Fateful Decision
When the cabinet met it did not intend to withdraw. Simon's speech, intended as a peace gesture, apparently ironically caused the fateful decision.

The United Press was informed on reliable authority that the term withdrawal was meant by the cabinet as Germany's formal announcement of resignation in fact. "The German word was 'Austritten'."

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Search for Charles (Pretty boy) Floyd, notorious southwestern outlaw, spread along the California coast today with reports he was seen at Ventura, 70 miles north of here, headed toward San Francisco.

The reports were carried in a police teletype message, urging authorities to post a sharp watch for the desperado whose will-o-the-wisp trail had long been crossed by bloodshed and brigandage.

Police Chief William Neal of Ventura notified local police Floyd was seen there yesterday by a boyhood acquaintance. The informant, who said he knew Floyd as a boy in Oklahoma, said he chatted with him and two male companions, while they filled the gasoline tank of their car at a service station.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Another Hollywood marriage headed for the divorce courts today with a suit on file against James Kirkwood, veteran of stage and screen.

Mrs. Beatrice Powers Kirkwood charged her husband deserted her just prior to the birth of their daughter, Joan, and that he has never seen the child, now nine months old. She was reduced to virtual poverty, resulting in her being evicted from their home, she alleged.

The suit, alleging extreme cruelty, seeks custody of the child. The Kirkwoods were married in Las Vegas, Sept. 23, 1931, and separated June 4 of the following year. It was Kirkwood's second marriage. He divorced Lila Lee in 1930.

ARBITRATION IS AGREED ON IN COTTON WAR

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Oct. 14. (To the Editor of The Register.) It must be terribly discouraging to Mr. Roosevelt after eight months of hard work to try to get people a job to have 'em strike the minute they get it. It looks like if all these dissatisfied groups instead of striking would keep on working and lay their complaints before the government with the proviso that if it's settled in their favor they get the extra back pay. Labor has seen enough of Roosevelt to know he is in sympathy with 'em, and that in a government arbitration they will get a square deal. Help your company to start making some money, and when they do Roosevelt will see that you get a fair part of it. If American labor would work while their case is being arbitrated, instead of striking, they would have the gratitude of our President and the sympathy of everybody.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

OPEN EVENINGS

COUNTY LEGION MAKES ATTACK ON SPEAKERS

was directed against the staging of programs sponsored by the Orange County Forum, directed here by Clara Morley, who spoke at the meeting. David N. Grokowsky, director of the Los Angeles Forum, was not allowed to speak.

Dr. Clinton Wunder, Los Angeles, who is scheduled to take the negative side of a debate with Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president at the last election, was present at the meeting. He was permitted to speak following loud objections and after he had proved that he was a member of Hollywood Legion post, was a member of the reserve officers training corps, and had served in the World war as a major.

Denies Charges

Dr. Wunder decried the apparent attempt to "bottle up" speakers at forum meetings, asserting that suppression of meetings of the public would do more harm than to allow open meetings. He denied allegations by Dr. Waters that most of the speakers on the Orange County Forum were Communists, declaring that it was his business to fight Communism.

"I defend the right of the forum and open meetings," he declared. "I submit that it is more beneficial to hold open discussions rather than closed discussions. I believe a Socialist has a right to his opinions. A rabid Socialist is a Communist. Communists are made through hunger and through whispering campaigns. The United States of America was born in a town hall atmosphere. The forum program is not backed by Communists. It would be better for all of us if we talked things over. Fascism is the only menace to America now. Bottling people up is not the way to solve their problems."

Answering a question asked by William Penn, Santa Ana councilman, Dr. Waters declared that the forum under discussion had no connection with other forums in Santa Ana. "I am not suggesting that no one attend these forums," Dr. Waters said. "I want people to know to whom they are listening. I am not saying anything against George Warner of Santa Ana, although I know plenty."

Verbal Blasts

Mrs. Morley, director of the Orange County Forum, told of how her sale of tickets stopped after a group of women telephoned all over Santa Ana opposing the meetings. She was allowed to speak after heated arguments. The entire meeting was characterized by explosive verbal blasts from many of those present. Mrs. Morley told that she had been informed that threats had been made to break up her first forum meeting. She called attention to editorials and news items in the Anaheim Bulletin which said speakers on the Orange County Forum program were radicals. She then pointed out that Lotus H. London, editor of the paper, was one of the first subscribers to the forum.

The resolution adopted last night said "there are appearing in increasing numbers in Orange county, under the guise of 'educators,' well known radical speakers whose principles are known to be antagonistic to the constitutional form of government of the United States." It named the Orange County Forum, and stated that the practice of bringing such radical speakers into Orange county particularly in our schools, be strongly disapproved, and that this Council urges those in authority to discontinue the encouragement and sponsorship of such speakers."

Santa Ana veterans present at the meeting included Judge J. B. Tucker, Charles Swanner, Charles Hyatt, Wilbur Getty, Arthur Ek-lunk, Hunter Leach, Herman Zabel, William Penn.

"Brass Tacks"

In his report, Dr. Waters of Anaheim, after reading two long pages, said: "We now come down to brass tacks. The coming to Orange county of what is called the Orange County Forum may or not have been with ulterior motives on the part of its organizers or sponsors. The fact that Mrs. Terry Stephenson, one of the Santa Ana sponsors, told me over the telephone that she knew all about the speakers on the forum is not sufficient to spoil my pleasure in believing that the majority of the sponsors did not and do not know all about them."

"Four of the nine speakers on that program are national committee members of the A. C. L. U. They are Norman Thomas, Norman Hapgood, Oswald Garrison Villard and Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn. Probably the most dangerous organization known to be in the United States today is the American Civil Liberties Union, in spite of what the radical editor of the largest newspaper in Orange county has to say of its favor editorially."

Dr. Waters quoted Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state under President Wilson, as saying that recognition of Russia was an enemy state. He said that fundamentally a Socialist is one who strives for social or community ownership of all property through the use of the ballot but that the Communist strives for the same objective but insists that force and violence be used as a means of attaining his end.

Free Speech

Following his tirade against speakers who are to appear in Santa Ana, Dr. Waters said: "No one should deny the right of these speakers to be heard. Freedom of speech is one of the most jealously guarded privileges given by the perhaps old, as its enemies say, but still the most wonderful legal document the world has ever

SUGGESTS LEGION SPONSOR REHABILITATION OF BOYS; POTTER NAMES COMMITTEES

Recommending that American Legion posts in Orange county sponsor a program to take care of boys who are on the road in a program similar to that operated by Los Angeles county, Capt. Ken Scudder, Los Angeles county probation officer and former head of the Whittier Reform school, addressed delegates to the Orange County Council of American Legion last night in Dana Point.

At the same meeting, committee appointments for the year were announced by County Commander Claude Potter, Orange, who presided at the meeting.

Scudder told the group that between 7000 and 10,000 boys come into Los Angeles every month who are on the road and have left homes in all parts of the United States because their parents were out of work or because of family difficulties.

Serious Problem

"Most of these boys," he said, "have never been given an opportunity to join a decent organization. Southern California faces a serious situation in the problem of wandering boys and girls who are kicked from one town to another. It has been estimated that between 200,000 and 300,000 of these youths journey back and forth across the country."

"In Los Angeles county, when any of these boys would get into trouble, we used to pay their expenses back home because it was cheaper than to send them to a reform school. We tried to make them face obligations but most of them refused to work. So we established camps in San Dimas canyon for work on the watershed. These forestry camps have proven a success. Boys who before would have been sent to reform schools now are sent to the camps, where they are paid 50 cents a day besides their room and board. As soon as they have earned enough to buy a ticket home and a suit of clothes, they are sent home—respectably and not as bums. In this manner they are able to retain their self respect. We have Kiwanians in Los Angeles write letters back to the clubs in the home town and the boys are met as they get off the train. This interest in them does them great good, and is a commendable piece of social work. There are no locks or bars in produced, the Constitution of the United States.

"Immediately after opposition was first expressed against the class of speakers appearing on the Orange County Forum, Floyd McCracken, editor of the Anaheim Bulletin, presented in the Bulletin on the 29th of September an editorial entitled 'Why This Kind?' In it he wholeheartedly supported the viewpoint that if speakers are to be imported into our midsts constructive and patriotic speakers rather than the opposite kind should be selected.

"Following that editorial there appeared in the Santa Ana Register on October 5th an editorial by J. Frank Burke in which that gentleman roundly scored the professional patriot who would dare censure his freedom of speech, supported the principles of the A. C. L. U. and pled ignorance of anything undesirable about it. As in previous editorials he denies ever, in all his life, having heard an address by an educated or intelligent communist except perhaps Lincoln Steffens, who would, I believe, strongly resent the implication that he was a Communist, even though he probably is.

"Burke often and loudly advocates recognition of Russia and on previous occasions editorially defended radicals. I would possibly have accepted his pleas of innocence of any knowledge of the inner workings of the A. C. L. U. had I not since his editorial appeared run across a comment by a well known patriot organization that the expression professional patriot is regularly applied by the A. C. L. U. to any and all persons who express devotion to the concept of national loyalty. Not having heard the expression elsewhere I cannot but wonder if Burke may not be more intimately acquainted with that organization than I have thought."

Dr. Waters said the situation is one-sided inasmuch as the radicals have axes to grind and have money to do it with.

"The announced coming to Orange county of a number of notorious radicals under the guise of 'educators,' he said, and authorities on good government, and sponsored by many people who are admittedly our leading citizens, is the last straw. The time has come when the American Legion of Orange county can no longer sit idly by and view the increasing activities of radicals in our community without vigorous protest."

DISCHARGE OF BEACH WORKER CAUSES BATTLE

A "warm" session of the San Clemente city council is anticipated next Friday night, when the matter of the discharge of W. J. Barry, pioneer resident of the Spanish Village, will be taken up. O. R. Robertson, city councilman and parks and playgrounds commissioner, who "fired" Barry, declined to go into the details of the matter, stating that the subject would be taken up at next week's meeting.

According to Barry, the first clerk of San Clemente, and who has been employed as laborer on the San Clemente golf course, he received notice with his last pay check that his services were no longer needed. Friends of Barry claim that he lost his job because the councilmen believed he voted against them in the recent recall election. Barry is a relative of a man who was active in the recall campaign.

Barry had charge of the first lumber yard in the Spanish Village; he assisted in founding the Masonic lodge and served as worshipful master; he helped organize the Men's club; he is a member of the school board and was a member of the board of directors of the Bank of San Clemente.

Barry is married and has three children, with a daughter and a son in high school and another daughter in the seventh grade.

HINDENBURG IN DECREE CALLS FOR ELECTION

Under league rules, a nation must give notice of withdrawal. At any time before the expiration of a two-year period it may annul its notice. Otherwise its resignation at the end of the period follows automatically.

It was obvious the government reached its decision only after sober conviction that there was no immediate compromise possible between it and the World war allies.

Germany adamantly demands that she be permitted to increase her armaments or that the allies, meaning France and Poland particularly, reduce theirs.

France, with the backing of the United States and Britain refuses to disarm before a test period of international armaments control. Germany was refused coldly her requested permission for rearmament.

The deliberation with which the government took its action was shown in the inundation of proclamations and decrees that followed.

In one of the first, the government's intention was revealed to centralize power absolutely in Berlin and Hitler.

A separate government decree dissolved the state parliament and announced there would be no new elections for state legislators.

Thus ended for the time, in line with Hitler's already announced policy, the German federal state system.

The government statements were temperate and gave evidence of long consideration.

It was announced Germany would enter no arms race, that her complaint was that other nations were engaged on a disastrous armaments race.

The German government, it was said, was ready to negotiate just agreements. But it must be on a basis of equality, the government added, and rather than continue to endure the humiliations of the past the government and the nation preferred to bear any oppression or hardships.

It was this that the government asked the nation to endorse.

In line with the temperate tone of all the German pronouncements, officials made it plain to the United Press that they planned to leave the league smoothly and in friendly manner, as rigorous protestants and not as rebels.

Germany would observe all league rules in her absence, it was said, and would continue to pay her dues up to the day her resignation became effective—the transition period, as it was termed.

POLICE RADIO, JAIL CHARGES ARE DISCUSSED

During city officials to lead the way in securing a referendum vote for a new distribution of the state gasoline tax money, George W. C. Baker, city councilman of Los Angeles, made a stirring denunciation of the present system before a meeting of Orange county mayors held last night in the Green Cat cafe.

Councilman Baker, prominent in civic affairs and one of the leaders in the gas tax reform movement, was brought to Santa Ana by Mayor Paul Witmer to present a first-hand picture of what is transpiring in the allocation of the tax funds. He charged that the cities were being unjustly treated and that the small municipal home owner was bearing an unequal burden in relation to the amount of money contributed to the gas tax funds.

Distribution Unfair

"One of the surest ways to reduce taxation is to allow cities a chance to use this money for the building, maintenance and improvement of municipal roads," Baker stated. "State highway officials are hard pressed to find legitimate projects on which to spend money while city streets are forgotten. The city dweller is forced to maintain municipal streets by direct taxation as well as paying the tax on gasoline to build costly highways. The present setup is manifestly unfair."

Baker traced the steps whereby the cities gained one-fourth cent from the three-cent tax but stated that this was but a forward step in the fight for a one-cent share for cities. Quoting Los Angeles statistics for a criterion, he said that up to June 1, 1931, that city had contributed $42,000,000 to the gasoline tax funds. Of this amount, the state received $24,000,000, the county $10,000,000 and Los Angeles a mere $1,040,000. Under the new quarter-cent regulations, Los Angeles will receive $800,000 annually for the next two years.

Cities Pay Most

"The voters of California should be entitled to decide this issue," Baker declared. "About 65 per cent of the tax fund is paid from the cities, yet the auto clubs, state highway commission and private interests have succeeded in practically eliminating municipalities from a just share of the money. The California League of Municipalities should campaign for a new deal and if it won't, a new Southern California group should be formed. Everywhere I go, the public is becoming conscious of how this money is being misapplied and how cities are entitled to a fair division."

As a result of his talk and discussion in the same vein by the county mayors, Mayor Witmer, Mayor Thomas Murphree sr., of San Clemente and City Attorney Clyde Downing of Santa Ana were instructed to draw up resolutions asking for the gas tax change to be presented for approval at the next meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities on October 26 at Brea. Resolutions will also be drafted for approval asking for a change in the price of meals charged cities at the county jail.

Police Radio Costs

Before the arrival of Baker from Los Angeles, considerable discussion was held on the county-wide police radio and the method of caring for its maintenance. It was announced that present plans called for the cities to stand a large share of the upkeep. This was attacked by the mayors on the ground that it was double taxation, since residents of cities also paid county taxes and were paying for the radio as well as residents in unincorporated areas. Mayor Murphree pointed out that the cities not only pay 65 per cent of the installation and maintenance, but will carry the brunt of enforcement, since all the police forces of the county are paid from city funds. He advocated a general tax on the entire county for the upkeep of the radio because his would make the per capita cost extremely low.

Mayor Herman Hilmer of Newport Beach said the radio facts should be widely publicized so that citizens would realize that cities would be doubly-taxed if they paid for the maintenance. Mayor Clyde Watson of Orange

COUNTY TO BENEFIT FROM GOVERNMENT PLAN TO BUY SURPLUS FOOD FOR NEEDY

Opening of a new and profitable market for agricultural products of Orange county as well as extension of relief to the destitute looms through action of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, according to word received by county officials.

A special unit is being formed by the administration for the purpose of buying surplus farm products and transferring them to the 3,500,000 families on the nation's relief rolls. Specific purchases of commodities will be made with the advice of chiefs of the administration's commodity sections, particularly those concerned with dairy products, poultry, hogs, cotton, cattle, fruits, vegetables and grains.

Funds for purchase of commodities will probably be delivered from the proceeds of processing taxes levied under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, money appropriated by the Federal Emergency Relief Act of 1933, and loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Orange county already has either received or been notified of relief under both phases of the program. According to Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory, hog raisers already have sold some of their surplus under the section of the program that authorized reduction of the surplus hog production.

Early this week County Welfare Director B. V. Curry was notified that 24,100 pounds of pork had been allotted to Orange county and would be delivered as soon as storage facilities had been obtained. This meat has been curried and will be distributed to families eligible for county relief.

Other markets are expected to be opened for Orange county ranchers under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration program. E. L. Markell, field representative for the administration said in a recent statement:

"It seems probable that if the new direct relief commodity purchasing plan is put into general operation it will eventually involve the purchase of considerable quantities of California fruits and vegetables."

The project involves the purchase from the producers of a portion of the excess which might otherwise go to waste or be dumped on the markets and depress prices below the level necessary to insure a fair return to the producers.

"This will not disturb the normal distribution of commodities through the usual trade channels inasmuch as the government purchases will go to a class of consumers that is unable to buy anything more than the bare necessities. Actually the plan should have a tendency to strengthen established market outlets by removing a portion of the overwhelming surplus that tends to check all improvements in prices."

said no action should be taken until the supervisors make negotiations with the cities.

Oppose Present Method

In further discussion of the gasoline tax situation, virtually every mayor present offered vigorous opposition to the quarter-cent allocation. Mayor Murphree said that a new distribution method is needed to overthrow the population basis, which is disastrous to coast and resort cities. He advocated that sales of gasoline should be the measuring stick.

Mayor L. A. Hogue of Brea urged immediate action on the campaign for a change while Mayor Charles Mann of Anaheim criticized Orange county cities for their "lackadaisical attitude" in state matters. Mayor Frank Champion of Laguna Beach stressed the need for co-operation to obtain results and Mayor W. L. Hale of Fullerton and Mayor William Huntly of Tustin echoed this sentiment. Hale made the motion that the county league act on the matter at the next meeting.

Mayor Witmer presided at the meeting and conducted the discussion. He introduced some of the featured guests, including Mrs. H. H. Cotton, wife of the state administrator for the federal public works program, and her daughter.

TAXPAYERS IN OPPOSITION TO HIGHWAY PLAN

Members of the Taxpayers' league of San Clemente went on record as opposing a proposal that the 4.7 miles of state highway in the Spanish Village be taken over by the city at their meeting last night. It was stated that $452 would be available annually for upkeep from gas tax allowance. The league members expressed the belief this would not meet the actual cost. W. A. Ayer, city engineer; B. H. Latham and R. L. Strang were appointed to draft a resolution against the proposition. The league voted to recommend to the city council that all major projects involving the expenditure of money be referred to the league for consideration.

A resolution criticizing a recent Register editorial on the situation at San Clemente was adopted by the league. A. L. Holloway, president of the league, stated this morning that he personally opposed the resolution, feeling that a later article in the Register had cleared the situation and that he felt the resolution was unnecessary.

MRS. MARY HENARD CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary Henard, 48, resident of Santa Ana for the past eight years, died at her home, 422 West Pine street, today following an extended illness. She had been sick for two years.

She is survived by her husband, Bury Henard and a son, Earl Hubbard.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a. m. from the chapel of the Smith and Tuthill Funeral home, Sixth and Broadway, with the Rev. F. Flora officiating.

Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

The suit demands $36.30 allegedly expended by the county on order of Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs for eradication of scale on certain parts of the ranch property. The pest, according to the complaint, was eliminated May 27, this year.

In the second action filed the county seeks foreclosure of a lien for $1000 for a similar service rendered May 28 and June 7 this year on other portions of the ranch property.

Defendants named in the second action were the same as those named in the other with the exception of the Orange County Title company, W. Vernon Foster, Rachel Foster and the General Petroleum corporation of California.

$10,000 SCHOOL ISSUE APPROVED

The $10,000 bond issue of Westminster school district was approved by voters yesterday, 77 to 1. This is the second election on the bonds, the previous issue being found illegal because the bonds called for six per cent, when the state law prohibits interest over five per cent.

According to Clyde Day, clerk of the Westminster board, application has been made to several federal agencies for a loan, with the bonds being put up as security. It is possible that the district may secure an outright gift of 30 per cent of the total, Day said.

Funds will be used for reconstruction of the Westminster school, damaged in the March earthquake.

RESERVATIONS ON CRUISE TO MEXICO HIT HALF WAY MARK; CRUISE LINER BEING PAINTED

A. A. Horsfield, of Los Angeles, city passenger agent of the United Fruit Steamship company, in the city yesterday to interview numerous Orange county residents, contemplating a special cruise to Mexico, stated that the new S. S. Talamanca to be used on the voyage already was half reserved. Reservations within the next week could be regarded as practically essential to the securing of the best space, he declared.

The S. S. Talamanca, which has been operated on the Pacific coast only since January, will go into dry dock this week to undergo repainting and other improvements, in specific preparation for the 13-day Goodwill Cruise to Mexico, on which Orange and San Diego county people are to sail November 4.

At the same time, Horsfield revealed that Southern Californians of recognized business and social prominence would form a considerable nucleus of the Mexico party's personnel, which already totals half a hundred. Prominent among those who already have joined the cruise-tour, according to Horsfield, are Mayor John Fordward of San Diego, who himself has headed previous excursions to Mexico, and who will unofficially lead the San Diego county cortege this year; George Bauder of San Diego, official of the General Electric corporation, and Mrs. Bauder; H. H. Courtwright, chief executive of the Valley Electric corporation of Fresno; J. E. Stewart, San Francisco business executive; Stuart O'Melveny, leading Los Angeles attorney, and Mrs. O'Melveny; Colonel Charles Haskell of Los Angeles, well known army officer; A. J. Salisbury, popular member of the California Club of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Johnson, prominent members of Montecito's social set, and many others of business and social prestige.

Horsfield traveled to Santa Ana yesterday to describe the trip to a gathering of some 250 Orange county folk here, and to display pictures descriptive of the Panama and tropical cruise trips in which the United Fruit ships specialize. He was accompanied by Don E. Hillman of Los Angeles, manager of the tour department of the Southern California Tourist Bureau, whose background of 10 journeys to Mexico within the past four years prompted his popular

HEARING IS WAIVED BY DAVID WETTLIN

D. G. Wettlin, prominent Santa Ana attorney who early this week admitted borrowing funds from an estate that he was administering and requested a grand theft complaint be issued against himself when he could not make restitution, appeared this morning before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison and waived his preliminary hearing.

Wettlin and his attorney, B. Z. McKinney, were informed that next Friday morning the district attorney will file in superior court a complaint charging him with the theft of $3150 from the Jacob Haist estate.

Admission that he had borrowed funds from the estate which he could not repay and the request for a complaint against himself were made by Wettlin when heirs to the estate had refused a settlement along lines suggested by themselves.

HAIRCUTS IN COUNTY STAY AT 50 CENTS

Orange county barbers, meeting last night in Fullerton Chamber of Commerce office, informally agreed to favor a 50-cent haircut instead of the 65-cent price established in the state barber's code. C. A. Burney, Fullerton, was named chairman of the evening.

Loud protests against the 65-cent haircut were heard last night when the battle of the shears and clippers was abruptly ended when the Southern California chapter of the Associated Master Barbers of America announced that effective this morning the standard price for a haircut, at least south of the Tehachap, is 50 cents; a shave, 25 cents.

Joe G. Kramer, executive secretary of the barbers' association, at the close of the meeting of barbers held at 246 South Hill street, said that a formal letter asking for immediate enforcement of the 50-cent minimum price had been sent to Edwin M. Daugherty, Corporation Commissioner at Sacramento. Mr. Kramer added that he already had the assurance that the 50-cent haircut price will be accepted and enforced.

The letter-petition to the Corporation Commissioner also declared that the price of a shave shall be 25 cents, the cost of a neck trim for women only, 35 cents, and that the guaranteed wage paid to journeymen barbers in Southern California shall remain at the figure incorporated in the temporary code—$20 per week and 60 per cent paid to the employee over and above $32 taken in.

Hours as set out in the temporary code now in force will also remain the same—8 a. m. to 6 p. m. on all days, except Saturdays and before holidays, when the closing hours shall be 7 p. m.

WASHINGTON

DEPROSING

Washington observers begin to wonder whether Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor is running for new and higher office. He has brought on here, apparently at his own expense, Kenneth Hayes, San Francisco financial writer, to act as his personal publicity representative. And the other day he held a press conference. Even the old-time Treasury reporter couldn't remember a Comptroller who had done that.

O'Connor's chief job at the moment is the thawing out of frozen banks so people can get at their money. Grumbles are heard that the California hasn't functioned fast enough.

In fact the Comptroller brought that matter up himself, reading approvingly from an editorial attack on his office.

BRASS TACKS

O'Connor distributed a prepared statement showing that 45.2 per cent of all the national banks which remained closed after the March bank holiday are now either licensed, chartered or liquidated. Of the remainder still unlicensed on Sept. 30, 43.3 per cent had received approval of reorganization plans.

Digging into the statement it develops that as of Sept. 30, there were 17 national banks which had been closed on some $11,000,000 of depositors' money.

The Comptroller's report of progress didn't satisfy all of the financial writers present. Several of them heckled O'Connor with a cross-fire of questions.

Finally one sharpshooter said rather pointedly he thought the approach to reopening the banks had been a pretty slow process.

"Well," said O'Connor, "I wish you were in this chair."

"So do I," rejoined the writer, who probably has money in one of the District's still-to-be-opened banks.

TWO REPEALS

Repeal of prohibition is going to confer one blessing on a heavily taxed nation that most people seem to have forgotten.

Buried in the National Industrial Recovery Act is a section directing the President to proclaim the date of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment (or at the close of the first fiscal year in which receipts exceed expenditures which exceed first).

This proclamation automatically will repeal, on the first day of the calendar year following, certain "employment and relief taxes" imposed by NIRA.

LIFTS

With repeal almost a dead cinch for December 6, this means your burden will be lightened in certain parts on January 1.

Of most interest is the Federal gasoline tax. NIRA stepped it up from a cent a gallon to 1-1/2 cents. The death of prohibition brings it back to a cent, which is a reduction of 33-1/3 per cent from what you are paying.

Big business also will get a helping hand.

A 5 per cent dividend tax will go off. So will a 5 per cent excise profits tax on corporations.

And effective July 1, corporations will no longer have to pay a special capitalstock tax of 1 for each $1,000 of the adjusted declared value of their capital stock.

All of which indicates that Uncle Sam anticipates juicy revenues from liquor.

NIRA is chock-full of little hotbed clauses that might well be dusted off and trotted into the sunlight.

One has to do with Public Works and has a particular bearing on the situation which has developed in southern and western states.

Public Works officials have complained they could easily allocate money in many sections of the South and West except for the rub that states and municipalities already have borrowed up to their legal limits.

Unless outright grants are made — unfair to those who have already borrowed — special elections will have to be held to legalize the borrowing, say the Public Works.

Let the Act speak for itself: "The President, in his discretion, and under such terms as he may prescribe, may extend any of the benefits of this Title (referring to the Public Works Section) to any state, county or municipality notwithstanding any constitutional or legal restriction or limitation on the right of such state, county, or municipality to borrow money or incur indebtedness."

WINE

A New York State newspaper publisher who dined with President Roosevelt the other evening thinks the end of prohibition may point one way to collecting some of our money from reluctant France.

If they won't pay up the War Debt, he argued, (and presumably also at the White House) why not sock a tax of about 300 per cent on French wines and liquors? This not only would bring in revenue but would satisfy the demands of domestic grape-crushers for protection. Apparently he is of the opinion Americans will buy foreign wines in fairly big quantities just because they are foreign, regardless of the price.

For some time French wine growers and merchants have been rubbing their hands over the return of America to the legal drinking arena. Many thousands of gallons are ready for shipment.

NOTES

After all the reams of publicity it received the Blue Eagle seems to be settling down in its nest for the winter. . . Office corridors at NIRA used to be teeming with newspaper reporters from dawn to midnight. . . Now the press room is big enough to hold them all. . .

Observers are wondering whether President Roosevelt's idea of an "economic council," a super-Cabinet meeting with heads of the emergency agencies also present — hasn't turned out to be something of a flop. . . The cry for co-ordination of recovery tries grows despite these Tuesday meetings when all in charge gather around one table.

NEW YORK

By James McMullen

Employment

On assault on the Federation of Labor's unemployment figures is planned from New York sources.

The claim is made here that the figure of 11,000,000 is all wet because it lists everyone as unemployed who has not returned to his pre-depression job. The claimants maintain that two or three million are counted as out of work who have actually transferred to new occupations.

They also maintain that no allowance is made for members of the forest army.

Then there's the school of thought which holds that 5,000,000 of the unemployed might as well be written off as representing older workers past the reemployment stage, low-grade negroes, and women who were temporarily absorbed in industry but cannot normally expect employment unless and until a boom develops.

MINIMIZING

This theory clashes directly with an integral part of the economic set-up which aims at making everyone a consumer. New York New Deal sympathizers point out that 5,000,000 permanently unemployed would be a terrific millstone around the taxpayer's neck and would cut the consuming power of those who have jobs, thereby curtailing industry and lowering the standard of living.

There is also the question — ignored by unemployment minimizers — of many young men and women who have never been able to get jobs since they left school. No accurate statistics are available but experts agree that the number would go far toward offsetting any arbitrary write-down of generally accepted figures.

Why all the desire to minimize unemployment? Chiefly as a conservative argument to prove that recovery is well advanced and that further New Deal experiments are needed. Even its advocates doubt that the argument will carry much weight where it counts.

WAGES

The inside tip here is to watch Senator Wagner for fireworks. His remarks to the Federation of Labor about protecting workers whose wage scale is above the minimum were something more than talk.

There is serious discussion in high quarters of revising codes so the more skilled workers will get something out of them besides a kick in the face.

That has happened in all too many places. Increases at the bottom have been compensated by cuts to the skilled. This has led to several strikes and growing resentment against NIRA.

You can expect a tremendous yell from the industrial side if and when the question is raised publicly. But first there will be quiet missionary work among employers who have so far been responsive to NIRA philosophy.

The idea is to line up as many supporters as possible before the screws are applied.

U.M.W.

You don't hear as much casual chat hereabouts likening the NRA to a plucked buzzard ready for the skill as you did a week ago.

D. R.'s interview with the ironmaster is the reason. It did plenty to counteract the government's apparent unwillingness to get tough with Henry Ford. Local big timers who were in on the play say they had no idea anybody could be so excessively hard-boiled and at the same time be so pleasant about it.

The steel people may split all the hairs they please about dealing with John Lewis as a representative of their laborers and not of the United Mine Workers but in the end the U. M. W. will be found to have all the aces it needs.

Yet even those who felt the iron don't charge that the President is showing favoritism to labor. They have a better conception of why hateful concessions are asked of them in the interests of recovery and aren't likely to try upsetting the apple cart in the near future.

They still have hopes of regaining lost ground in the long run but that's another story. They feel it would be as futile to try this now as to try to stop army tanks with a pea shooter.

PERFUMES

Now that strikes are becoming a daily feature of the "New Deal," Park Avenue is having its troubles. Some of Manhattan's top-lodging dwellings have aromas more penetrating than the slums as the results of "stink bombs" which have been tossed into their doorways and ventilating ducts by striking painters and decorators.

This new form of warfare is causing many Park Avenueites to hold their noses and run for the open spaces.

IMPROVED CAR MODELS SHOWN BY STUDEBAKER

The new 1934 Studebaker motor cars, just announced throughout America, held the spotlight of motoring interest here today.

The new models, in their new skyway styling and speedway showrooms, were exhibited at the showrooms of George C. Johnson, 100 South Main street. Many motorists gathered there to inspect and drive the cars — and gave enthusiastic approval of Studebaker's contribution to the "new deal" of motoring, Johnson said.

Motorists who inspected the new cars today were impressed by three distinctive features — their low prices, their ultra-modern skyway styling and the ensemble of devices and designs which make for safety, ease-of-handling and long, quiet operation.

Studebaker body designers have gone a long way in reducing wind resistance and adapting the flowing, symmetrical lines of present day aircraft to the new models. Interiors are roomier than previous models. Seats are wider and deeper, leg room is more abundant. Headroom has been increased, yet the bodies are lower and have greater inherent stability.

Dashboard instruments include speedometer, electric fuel gauge, engine thermometer, oil pressure gauge and ammeter. Windshield cleaners, operating from below, are adjustable to fast and slow speeds. All closed bodies are wired for radio and specially designed custom-built Studebaker-Philco radios are available. All of the automatic features, the many "mechanical" features, the many "Studebaker" and "helpful" features, are found in the new models. Automatic switch-key starting, automatic choke, a fast and slow carburetor idle for warming up anti-back fire device; free-wheeling, and power brakes on the larger model are all standard equipment. In fact the automatic features are so numerous that the driver has little to do but steer.

Into the interiors of the new cars Studebaker has put luxury and comfort heretofore found only in expensive automobiles. A choice of rich mohair velvet or broadcloth upholstery is provided. Seats are of approved "orthopedically correct" form-fitting type and "mushroom" type spring cushions (each coil individually wrapped) are standard. The wide deep front seats are easily adjustable by a convenient push button at the driver's left. A new style of interior top covering on the closed models gives a delightful dome effect. Rear seats have arm rests. Door pockets, grip cords, robe strap and foot rests are provided. New type ash receivers on the back of front seats — built in the handles at each end of the robe rail — give convenience to smokers.

Attending were Elizabeth Scofield, Betty Brewster, Phyllis Redfern, Nina May Miller, Marie Hammarsmith, Lorraine Ruppe, Enid Dunavant, Lois Grill, Dorothy Little, Lenore Kephart, Clarence O'Flynn, Alice McGulre, Juanita Whitliffe, Harriet Stillians, Gertrude Hoff, the latter of Alhambra, the hostesses and prize winners.

The device is installed in the doorway of the Turner Radio company store, 221 West Fourth street, and incoming persons are checked as the beam is broken, causing a reaction on a system of radio amplifying tubes which operate a set of electric chimes. The instrument was designed and built in the store shop.

Various electric appliances are operated in the show window each night by the electric eye.

ESCAPES DEATH AS AUTO HITS MOVING TRAIN

Crashing into a moving freight train at First and Santa Fe streets at 5:20 a. m. today, James B. Justus, 24, Irvine, narrowly escaped death or serious injury and was released from the Orange county hospital after being given first-aid treatment.

Justus said he failed to see the lights on the train and could not avoid hitting the cars. His machine was pinned under a coupling between two of the freight cars and was badly damaged. J. A. McCalla, oil company employee, pulled Justus from the wreckage and Police Officer F. L. Grouard rushed him to the hospital.

There were no witnesses to the crash although W. J. Brown, Canoga Park, conductor of the train, heard the wreck and ran to the crossing. Justus was driving east when he struck the train. His injuries consisted of cuts and bruises on the head, hands and legs.

CITRUS SHIPPING AGREEMENT WINS WARM APPROVAL

Stabilization efforts of California valencia growers won the praise of trade and exchange salesmen all over the United States and Canada, according to T. H. Powell, general sales manager of the California Fruit Growers' exchange, who returned to Los Angeles yesterday from the annual divisional meetings of the exchange in San Francisco, Chicago and Boston.

Powell said: "California oranges and lemons are in better position than most any other staple product, even including those agricultural products that have already had the benefit of government help."

"California Valencia shipments in August were greater than any previous year except one, and September shipments of over 5000 cars constituted an all-time record for the month," he added.

"We have had a remarkably uniform market, devoid of disturbing fluctuations and steadily improving throughout the season, even though prices have not been all that growers would like to see them."

BIG WINDS OF KANSAS

The Irish of Notre Dame can remember a new "night of the big wind," as of Oct. 7, 1933, when a big wind swept clear from Kansas University and stopped the Ramblers in their tracks. The Southenders may get an argument on the date from Chili Walsh's Irish at St. Louis University. Walsh's men were wafted from their feet on the night of Oct. 6, 1933 by a windstorm generated in the football laboratory at Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science.

BAD DAYS

It might be said the Notre Dame system, which also is taught by Walsh, had a couple of bad days with the breezes. One of the elements of the Kansas State breeze is named "Rambling Ralph" Graham. Another is Oren Stoner. Rambling Ralph started the season in zephyrlike style, scoring four touchdowns. In the game against St. Louis, Stoner ran 55

CHILL ON CAMPUS

Ormand Beach was one of the important defensive elements in the K. U. breeze that confused Notre Dame. Another was Old Joe Line, composed of seven men who bumped the Irish forward wall around roughly. It may take "Hunk Anderson some time to recover from the chill of that Kansas wind brought to Notre Dame.

One of the best punters on the Marquette football squad never has kicked a ball during a game . . . and it's all because he (Art Krueger) is a star center . . . and he couldn't very well pass the ball to himself and then run back to catch and kick it. . . . BEATING ORANGE FOR THE FIRST

In seven years, Coach Bill Cole's Tustin Tilters furnished an upset when Wilson Seacord crashed through the Orange line to block Vernon Mansur's punt and then fall on the ball back of the goal for the only touchdown. Seacord also added the extra point. The first half was featured by the shift-off-tackle runs of Oliver McCarter, Orange quarterback, and the spectacular line drives of Dean Francis, Tustin full. "Chuck" Forbes, Tustin quarter, came close to putting the ball over when he intercepted an Orange pass and ran 30 yards when he was finally stopped on the 15-yard line, but the Farmer was stopped there. In the third quarter, Tustin again got within scoring distance but passed incomplete over the goal. It was after this play, and a 15-yard penalty, that Mansur's punt was blocked. Tustin threatened again in the last few minutes of play, driving in the where Goodwin broke through and tossed Forbes for a 5-yard loss just as the game ended.

HORNBLOWER TO PROTEST STATE RACING ACTION

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(UP)

A storm of protest centered about the California racing commission today, over the commission's rejection of three applications for track permits.

Assemblyman William Hornblower, angered by the commission's refusal to honor the application of the California Jockey Club of San Mateo, announced he would carry the fight to Gov. Rolph in an endeavor to impeach the competency of the three commissioners. Hornblower was co-author of the legislative bill which legalized pari-mutuel horse racing.

The commission also turned down the petitions of Al Unack, representing the Baldwin Park Jockey club, and Gene Normie, representing the Oakland Jockey club. Both were granted leave, however, to file amended petitions.

The only successful applicant was Dr. Charles Strub of the St. Francis Jockey club who was authorized to proceed with plans to open a track in San Francisco next fall.

Rejected applicants criticized the board for its manner of stating requirements for a permit. Both Normie and Unack were spurned on grounds their financial plans lacked proper support.

All defeated applicants accused the board of compelling them to "shoot at a blind target."

In defense of its action, Chairman Carleton Burke said the St. Francis Jockey club submitted the best plan.

Representatives of the St. Francis club said plans call for investing $1,300,000, of which $75,000 will be spent in constructing a track near the Harding Park golf course. The first meeting will open next October for 60 days. Marion Hollins, well-known woman golfer, is listed on the board of directors.

Harold Roach told the board he has raised $500,000 to finance a turf club here and that the amount would be doubled when he formally seeks a permit. Commissioners indicated they would hold a special meeting as soon as, and if, the goal is subscribed.

NEXT FRIDAY'S GAMES

Brea-Olinda at Tustin; Newport Harbor at Garden Grove; Huntington Beach at Anaheim.

Although the Orange County league's 1933 football season was only two weeks old, Brea-Olinda high school today boasted the only undefeated-untied record in the conference.

There was nothing unlucky about Friday, the 13th, for "Shorty" Smith's Wildcats. Outgained decisively, and for the most part outplayed, Brea-Olinda added an extra point to its touchdown and humbled Anaheim, the defending champion, 7-4 at Brea yesterday.

Using a varied assortment of spinners, fake bucks, reverses and end runs, the Colonists' fast, deceptive eleven gave a crowd of 2000 many thrilling moments only to go down in defeat before a stubborn Wildcat machine.

Taking possession of the ball on the fourth play of the game, the Colonists drove 45 yards to a touchdown in 11 plays, featuring Bert Kidd, "Chuck" Comstock and Captain Benny Davis. Davis scored from the one-yard line but Ray Brown's placement was wide and that proved a costly miss.

Recovering a fumble on the Anaheim 23-yard line, and end-around play gave the Wildcats 13 yards and a first down on the 10-yard line. Stanley Logsdon, Brea speed-burner, was bottled up and the Colonists recovered on the 5-yard strip.

Logsdon returned Kidd's subsequent kick 37 yards. He made 9 more on the next play. A series of losses and a penalty put the leather back on the 25-yard line, from where a pass by Ray Thompson to Captain Ed Zerbe produced a touchdown. Thompson carried the ball over for the extra point on an off-tackle play.

In the final period, Anaheim started a desperate touchdown drive, carrying the ball from its own 20 to the Wildcats' 9-yard line. A 25-yard pass, Comstock to Davis, added impetus to the rally but with a first down and goal-to-go on their 9-yard line Colonists failed further to dent the Wildcat defense.

The contest turned out to be a brilliant punting duel between Archie Clayton and Ray Thompson of Brea-Olinda and Bert Kidd, Anaheim left-footed ace. Brea-Olinda's victory was partially due to Clayton's splendid footwork. He punted 50 yards several times.

Anahiem made 12 first downs and gained 133 yards from scrimmage and 25 thought the air. Brea-Olinda made four first downs, and 53 from scrimmage, and 53 from scrimmage. Kidd proved to be the outstanding ball carrier, making 72 yards.

Beating Orange for the first time in seven years, Coach Bill Cole's Tustin Tilters furnished an upset when Wilson Seacord crashed through the Orange line to block Vernon Mansur's punt and then fall on the ball back of the goal for the only touchdown. Seacord also added the extra point.

The first half was featured by the shift-off-tackle runs of Oliver McCarter, Orange quarterback, and the spectacular line drives of Dean Francis, Tustin full. "Chuck" Forbes, Tustin quarter, came close to putting the ball over when he intercepted an Orange pass and ran 30 yards when he was finally stopped on the 15-yard line, but the Farmer was stopped there.

In the third quarter, Tustin again got within scoring distance but passed incomplete over the goal. It was after this play, and a 15-yard penalty, that Mansur's punt was blocked. Tustin threatened again in the last few minutes of play, driving in the where Goodwin broke through and tossed Forbes for a 5-yard loss just as the game ended.

Mack To Quit--When He Falls Off Bench

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—(INS)

At the end of his fifth year in organized baseball, Connie Mack, tall, lean leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, is not possessed of the slightest thought of retirement.

"Sure, I'm ready to retire, when I fall off the bench and they carry me out of the park, and not until then," he asserted with complete positiveness.

It was in May, 1884, that Connie entered the great American game of baseball with which his name is now almost synonymous. It was a crude beginning, as a catcher for the Meriden team in the Connecticut State league.

And today, 50 years later, with Connie looking forward to his 71st birthday, December 23, it can be safely said he hasn't lost one iota of enthusiasm for the game.

Mack can still get steamed up about a game of baseball to an extent that completely belies his years.

"Just as long as I retain the respect and confidence of my players, I'll know I'm perfectly capable of carrying on," laughed Connie.

S. A. POMONA TENNIS TEAMS CLASH SUNDAY

Apparently the team to beat for the Citrus Belt division championship, the Pomona Tennis club invades the Frances Willard courts here tomorrow for an inter-league tournament that promises to be one of the best of the season. Matches will begin at 10 a. m. with the public welcome.

Santa Ana is currently the divisional leader, having opened its schedule last Sunday with an 11-0 victory over Redlands. At the same time, Pomona was defeating Fullerton, 3-2.

Santa Ana and Pomona appear to dominate the league, with Riverside, Redlands and Fullerton only minor contenders.

Pomona's lineup includes Art Plum, onetime U. S. C. captain; Ralph Arnold of Ontario; John Almon, captain of the Pomona college squad; Walter Blair, Corona high school star, and Jack Walker, Chaffey junior collegian.

Lewis Wetherell, sensational high school player, will be Santa Ana's No. 1 man. Toby White, Orange county champion, will handle the No. 2 assignment. Other men's singles players representatives are Gil Ward, Johnny Cross and Kenneth Ranney. Wetherell, Ward, White-Ranney and Cross-Herb Smith will be the doubles combinations, with Mildred Ward and Marjorie Lauderbach in the women's events.

LAVERNE, REDLANDS LEAD S. C. CIRCUIT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(UP)

LaVerne and Redlands remained at the helm of the Southern California conference today after rolling up decisive victories under the arc lights of their home fields last night.

LaVerne annexed its second victory by shutting out Caltech, 12 to 0.

Redlands matched LaVerne's record in the standings by vanquishing Occidental, 21 to 6.

Whittier inserted a win to offset a tie in the standings by turning back Santa Barbara, 18 to 0, at Santa Barbara.

Pomona and San Diego engage in hostilities tonight at San Diego.

GARCIA STOPS TUT; REFEREE QUITS RING

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14.—(UP)

Celebrity Garcia, California state welterweight champion, was credited with a knockout over King Tut in the seventh round of a state title fight here last night.

The "fight" resolved into two separate encounters with Referee Frankie Van quitting the ring in disgust after both contestants had dropped to the canvas in each of the first three rounds.

Ward's Peppers made a gesture in the third quarter when it received the kickoff and reeled off five consecutive first downs before losing the ball on downs.

WOOD, SHIELDS ONLY HOPES OF U. S. NET TEAMS

BY HENRY M'LEMORE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Ellsworth Vines is gone. Three others of the first ten are going, and the hope we have names Cliff Sutter, Lester Stoefer and Wilmer Allison. Sidney Wood is absorbed with his work on Wall street. So is Frank Shields.

Which means that the captain of the 1934 American Davis Cup team will have the most thankless task since Donnie Bush got a three-year contract with the Reds. For next year's leader will have less to work with and more to work against than any cup commander in memory.

Who will America have to challenge the British, Australian, Japanese and Germans next year? Well, we'll have George Lott and John Van Ryn, the finest doubles team in the world. We'll have them, of course, providing George and Johnny don't land jobs that mean more than a trip to Europe.

Lott and Van Ryn are a good start, but unfortunately, the material ends as well as begins with them. They're alpha and omega, nu and zion.

Did you say something about Frankie Parker? He's two or three years away, and that's giving him the best of it. Our guess would be that the Milwaukee pantalooned wonder is as good as he'll ever be. He lacks that strange something which separates good and great.

You can forget "Bitsey" Grant, too. Ten years from now he'll still lack international class. Just as well with Keith Gledhill and Gregory Mangin.

Even if Sutter, Stoefer and Allison do resist the jangle of coins in Bill Tilden's pockets, the 1934 team's chances wouldn't be greatly improved. Allison is well past his peak as a singles player. Sutter never had one. The New Orleans boy was good but never great. Stoefer is a hot and cold player. On the days his service is working the Californian reeled in a lot of tennis players.

On the days it isn't—and unfortunately, those days are not rare—your Uncle Luther could beat him in straight sets.

America's chance of having a decent team next year rest on wooing Sidney Wood away from his work. Wooing Shields away from his work. Wooding Shields away from his work. Wooding Shields away from his work.

Wooding Shields away from his work. Wooding Shields away from his work. Wooding Shields away from his work. Wooding Shields away from his work.

OREGON STATE NEXT ON U. S. C. SCHEDULE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—University of Southern California's football squad will take to the road next week on the first of three trips into enemy territory. Meeting Oregon State at Portland, the Trojans will attempt to gather their second conference victory of the season.

The S. C. squad will leave for Portland via a Southern Pacific "Trojan Special" Wednesday at 8:45 p. m. Arriving at Sacramento at 9:30 a. m. Thursday the Trojans will take a brief workout, utilizing the Sacramento junior college field.

The special will reach Portland Saturday, October 21, at 10 p. m. The squad will reach Los Angeles the following Monday morning at 7:45.

With their departure for Portland, the Trojans desert the Coliseum for foreign fields until Armistice day. California will be met at Berkeley October 28, and the S. C. team will rest November 4.

C. C. C. Troopers Would Exchange Bear For Ducats

BERKELEY, Oct. 14.—(INS)

For swap: One cub bear for 40 tickets to the California Olympic Club football game here today.

That offer was made by the men of the C. C. C. camp in Strawberry canyon, just above the California campus.

"The trouble with bears is that they always grow up," said W. W. Monahan, graduate manager.

The troopers countered by saying they would lend the bear if California would lend the tickets.

TO BOSS TIGERS?

Hardly had the news of "Bucky" Harris' resignation as manager of the Detroit Tigers died down than the report was circulated that Muddy Ruel, below, would be the new boss. Ruel, now 37, was one of the greatest catchers of baseball when with the Senators. He caught a few games for the Tigers during the last two years.

GUNTHER GRABS LENGTHY TOSS FROM ANDERSON

Further gaining the respect of league opponents, Santa Ana's Dons fought the U. C. L. A. freshmen to a 7-7 deadlock at the Bowl last night to convince Coach Bill Cook that his junior college eleven will be ready for its conference inaugural at Pomona next Saturday.

Walt Gunther, lanky end from Orange, made a sensational catch of a long pass down the left sidelines from Wilburn Anderson, halfback, for a 43-yard gain and Santa Ana's touchdown in the last minute of the second period. Quarterback Harold Welty kicked goal to erase a 7-0 lead which the Westwood yearlings earned early in the first quarter when big Bob Williams, former all-city prep halfback at Los Angeles HI, broke loose for a touchdown run of 74 yards, and then added the extra point.

The touchdown pass took U. C. L. A.'s secondary by surprise. Forty-three yards away from the goal, Anderson took the ball on what started as an end run, but after several strides to the right faded back and passed 45 yards, Gunther making a two-armed catch on the 5-yard line and crossing the goal standing up.

Welty's Long Run Helps

It was Welty's 42-yard gain from his own 15 that really placed the Dons in position for their touchdown. Anderson's pass came on the following play.

Santa Ana threatened at least once in every quarter. Fighting desperately after U. C. L. A.'s sudden touchdown by Williams, the Dons launched a sustained drive to the 1-yard line, but lost the ball on downs at the beginning of the second quarter. Their second best spurt came in the final period when they registered three consecutive first downs from Santa Ana's 33 to U. C. L. A.'s 30, but poor passes from center left the Dons in possession near midfield as the gun sounded.

The talented backfield of the Bruin babes kept the Dons in hot water throughout although the freshmen reached scoring territory only once. Their best attack pattered out on Santa Ana's 23-yard line. U. C. L. A.'s backs made all kinds of yardage in their own territory. Williams, Gary, Reichle and Bill Spaulding Jr. being outstanding as ball-carriers.

Dons Outgained

Although outgained 213 yards to 151 from scrimmage, the Dons earned 8 first downs to U. C. L. A.'s 7 and kept the ball either in enemy territory or near midfield for more than three-fourths of the contest.

Bruce Handy, center played a whale of a defensive game, breaking through to smear the Westwood backfield three different times for five and eight yard losses. The Dons forwards held up well against the smashes of the hard-driving U. C. L. A. backs, but it was not until the final half that they could throttle Williams. Santa Ana's backs showed vast improvement.

The Dons kept their record clear, but tucked away their third tie of the season. They opened with a 6-6 deadlock with the U. S. C. Freshmen, tied Urban academy 0-0 the following week, and defeated Pomona college varsity 6-0 last Saturday.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

Flush, by Virginia Woolf, published by Harcourt, Brace. "Flush" is an ingenious device by which the author gives us a delightful picture of Miss Barrett and Mr. Browning, as well as certain aspects of a "dog's life." It is something different in literature and yet it treats of people we have heard and read about.

Woven into the text gracefully are Miss Barrett's own comments on her faithful and beloved companion. Even regardless of Flush's association with famous people he didn't have a dull life at all. His first mistress was Miss Mitford with whom he enjoyed long walks and by whose side, in puppy days, he anticipated a normal dog's active life, chasing hares and such engaging occupations. Miss Mitford gave Flush to Miss Barrett. It was a sacrifice. She thought about it for a long time. But she finally concluded that Flush was worthy of England's greatest poetess and she was worthy of him. So she gave him to Miss Barrett and Flush passed through a metamorphosis. From a normally active dog he became a literary dog. The change is described delightfully. For several quiet years he shared Miss Barrett's confinement. Then came Mr. Browning. Flush rebelled against Mr. Browning but the end of that was that Flush conquered himself—his selfish jealousy of Mr. Browning. Then there was the kidnapping. That was a horrible experience. The next excitement was the flight from Wimpole street and Italy. Flush became quite democratic in Italy. Later there was the baby and a newborn baby viewed through the eyes of a dog who had conquered jealousy in himself is something new.

Once there was a return visit to London when he and his mistress visited the familiar room in Wimpole street. In the end he died in Florence, at Mrs. Browning's feet. She had been talking to him just a moment before and when next she looked at him his eyes failed to respond to hers.

"Flush" by Virginia Woolf is so delightful everyone who loves whimsies and style should read this book for they will find peace and relaxation with it.

"The Gold Falcon or the Haggard of Love" published by Harrison, Smith and Robert Haas. "The Gold Falcon" is a tempting book. It has been acclaimed as meat for sophisticated people. Who does not want to be thought sophisticated? Therefore, in order to belong to the order, a reader will work awfully hard over this book, or else pretend to be enamored with it.

Regarded as a piece of satire the book has good points. One critic says that the author should have decided whether he was writing a "smart" novel for the delight of the cognoscenti or a poetic allegory of a diseased and troubled generation.

As satire, it seems to have some sense—regarded otherwise it is a hodgepodge of absurdities and unrealities. Manfred, the central figure, runs away from Ann, his wife, and their son, Hugh, for the purpose of reorienting himself after the death of his son, Peter, and the defection of his mistress.

Marlene. Arrived in New York.

he is entertained by his publisher and the publisher's son, and is consumed by a lot of banalities. It is difficult to place his type. That he is intended to be an irresponsible type is fixed beyond the shadow of a doubt when he lightly throws whatever things he can put his hands on at the cop stationed at the corner. He also seems to be an adult masquerading as a juvenile. What fun it was to him to watch the policeman wiping the tomatoes from his face! The New York Manfred goes in for is the kind portrayed in "Ex-Wife." As a satire of all struggling men "in search of freedom and personal sunrise," it has good points. For example, there was the character in "All Men Are Enemies" who searched so diligently and bitterly.

Manfred fell in love with the fiancée of his publisher's son. Of course she seems to be his consolation, the woman who renews him, his affinity. But lovers always have that viewpoint and, after all, it is only a repetition of his former affair, with variations. Actually Manfred is not bad. One of the sweet things about him is his nostalgia, his frequent search in the usually empty mail box for a letter from Ann, the recurring thoughts of Ann and Hugh. But he is so egocentric! The book has been popular in England, and that is easily understood, for the travesty on New York life is meant to the English, and the thinly disguised lampooning of current authors is enough to keep up their countrymen.

See what you can make of it.

Christmas Tidings by William Muir Auld, published by The Macmillan Company.

It is beginning to be noticed that Christmas is approaching. From publishers and merchants come the reminders.

Two years ago Dr. Auld wrote "Christmas Traditions," telling in a delightful manner the story of Christmas—the rise of the Christmas carol, the history of the Christmas tree, the significance of the Yule log, Christmas bells, holly and mistletoe.

"Christmas Tidings" is a companion volume to "Christmas Traditions." It deals with the faith which has inspired Christmas festivity. It considers the mystical charm and beauty of the Nativity as reflected in poetry, ritual, art and tradition through the centuries. It is embellished with lovely passages from the poets and sages bearing witness to the spiritual meaning and beauty of Christmas.

"Doubt ye the force of Christmas on the soul?" wrote Browning in "The Ring and the Book." And from an old carol: May joy come from God above. To all those who Christmas love!

It is a nice idea to prepare our spirits for Christmas, by reading this book and then it can be fittingly and worthily wrapped up in star bedecked paper and presented as a Christmas gift.

Modern Poets

By MISS BEULAH MAY

In the death last year of Marion Couthouy Smith, the world lost a true poet.

THE TREES THAT LEAN OVER WATER

The trees that lean over water
Living enchanted days,
I have known them on quiet farm-lands.

I have seen them on golden bays:

Dreaming in calm, cold twilight,
Musing in noonday suns,—
There are trees that lean over water.

Wherever water runs.

There is nothing in days or seasons

Those rapt trees ever know;

The only world for their dwelling

Is the crystal world below.

They are deaf to the wind's alluring.

They are dumb through its stor-
my song;

They answer only the water

That whispers and glides along.

The trees that lean over water.

They miss the untroubled sky;

They lose its fathomless splendor

As the starry march goes by;

In their own boughs entangled

They view the eternal suns.

—There are trees that lean over water

Wherever the water runs.

—Step ladder.

MELODY CRUISE TAKES SCREEN AT WALKER'S

Many predicaments confront Charlie Ruggles in the musical movie, "Melody Cruise," coming to Walker's State Sunday, with Phil Harris, Greta Nilsen and Helen Mack also in the featured roles.

Harris, playing his millionaire playboy friend, insures his immortality from marriage by describing Ruggles' prodigies to his wife in a letter which is to be opened only in case of his marriage, promotes embarrassing situations when his friend actually falls in love. Eventually, he falls, but encounters his greatest hardship in trying to retrieve the revealing letter from his wife.

Mark Sandrich directed "Melody Cruise" with a musical accompaniment which embodies four new melodies especially written for the picture by Val Burton and Will Jason, composers of the famous "Penthouse Serenade."

CHEVALIER IN NEW LOVE FILM STARTS SUNDAY

Maurice Chevalier's big new picture, "The Way to Love," will open a three day engagement at the Broadway theater starting tomorrow.

Filled with the Chevalier personality, with the comedy of Edward Everett Horton and with a new leading lady, Ann Dvorak, the picture is said to be typical of the French star's other big hits in entertainment, with the added feature that this time he has a Parisian background, where he feels far more at home.

Chevalier sings several new snappy songs in the new picture, which has its moments of smart wisecracks and interesting situations.

Aside from the feature, the Silly Symphony cartoon, "Noah's Ark," which played here several weeks ago, is being returned by special request; a novelty football picture, "The Kick-off," is to be seen and a news reel.

Preview To Run Tonight At Broadway

Starting tonight at approximately 8:30 p. m., the Broadway theater will stage the preview of a major production from one of the leading picture companies of Hollywood, it was announced today.

The title of the new picture, or the nature of the plot is not known to the Santa Ana theater, it being the custom of the producers to withhold any information regarding the preview until it is first flashed on the screen.

The new picture will be shown in connection with the Broadway's regular show, "Golden Harvest," which ends a three-day Santa Ana run tonight. "Golden Harvest" stars Richard Arlen, Chester Morris and Genevieve Tobin. It is the story of a fight between two brothers to gain control of the wheat market of the country and their success.

WAR FILM RECALLS DEEDS OF SCOUTS

Buck Jones recalls vivid memories of those heroic scouts of the old West, Buffalo Bill, Pawnee Bill, Kit Carson and the rest, in his latest picture, "Treasure," at Walker's State theater, for he plays the role of a gallant cavalry scout in Kansas in the troublous days immediately following the close of the Civil War.

Detailed to bring back, dead or alive, a woman warrior whose soldiers have been terrifying Kansas, Jones makes good his mission, only to find that he has helped to bring the shadow of the noose about the neck of the woman he loves.

La Reina Rule In Return Engagement

Miss LaReina Rule, physicist, who several months ago was an attraction at the Broadway theater, has been re-called for another week's engagement, it was announced today.

Miss Rule's strange manner of predicting future events and her popularity here as a reader of thought has caused many patrons of the theater to ask that she be returned. She will be on the mezzanine floor of the theater for daily readings, free of charge, throughout all of next week, starting tomorrow.

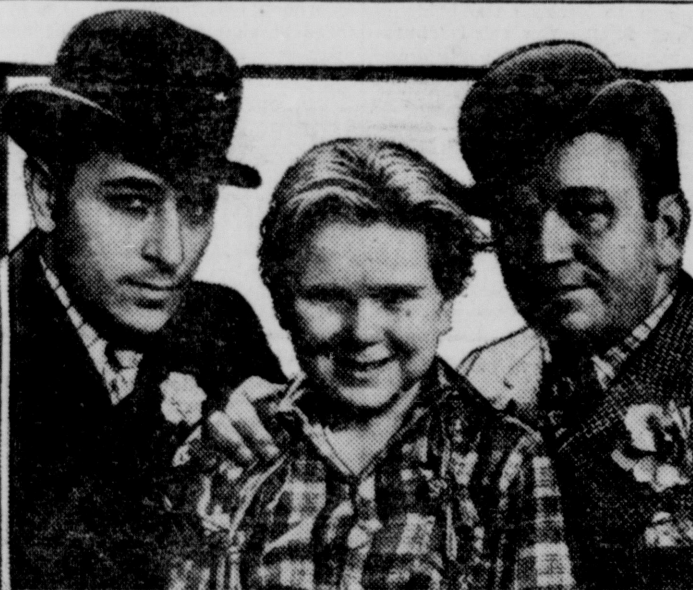

COMING TOMORROW

Maurice Chevalier, with his dynamic French personality, returns to the Broadway theater tomorrow for a three day showing of his new picture, "The Way to Love." Edward Everett Horton has the comedy role and Ann Dvorak is seen as the girl in the plot.

OPENS WEEK'S RUN

Wallace Beery, George Raft and Jackie Cooper, as they appear in "The Bowery," one of the season's greatest hits, which comes to the Fox West Coast theater today for an entire week. Due to the popularity of the picture elsewhere, Santa Ana theater owners jumped at the chance to play the picture here for an entire week, they said.

IN A TIGHT SPOT

Charlie Ruggles, truant husband who finds two chorus girls in his stateroom after his ship leaves on a homeward bound cruise, is shown here with the two causes of his troubles in the film "Melody Cruise" which opens tomorrow at Walker's State.

"THE BOWERY" STARTS WEEK'S ENGAGEMENT

"The Bowery," roaring romance of bad old New York when bad New York was bad, which was back in the 80's and the 90's is seen in all its glory, in the picture of that name which comes to the Fox West Coast theater for an entire week, starting today.

The bigness of the picture, together with its appeal, its songs of yesterday and its costumes of a generation all but forgotten in these hurrying days of 1933, are expected to bring large audiences to the West Coast theater throughout the week.

Wallace Beery, as Chuck Connors, saloon keeper; George Raft, as Steve Brodie, the gambler, and Jackie Cooper, as "Swipes," a newsboy, give stirring performances, while the plot, based on the jealousies of Brodie and Connors and their love for the kid, make the picture more than human.

Fay Wray has the feminine lead. She is in love with both and finally marries one of the enemies. Pert Kelton, who sings "Ta-ra-ra-boom de-ay" in her own little manner, steals much of the laughter the play produces.

Aside from the feature, the third episode of "Tarzan, the Fearless," will be shown, together with a new Mickey Mouse, "Mickey's Gala Performance," written for the opening of "Gold Diggers of 1933," which that picture played at the Grauman Chinese theater.

WOMAN'S PLACE SUBJECT FOR MODERN DRAMA

Is a woman's place merely in the home?

People interested in learning an answer to this often-debated question will find it in "Anna Carver's Profession," which opens Wednesday at Walker's State theater.

In this powerful drama, Fay Wray is seen as Anna Carver, a lawyer whose efforts to gain a greater reputation for herself results in her neglecting her husband.

It is only after he has become involved with another woman, and a series of complications results, that Anna Carver realizes her true happiness lies in the love of her husband.

Opposite Fay Wray is blonde-haired Gene Raymond, in the role of her husband, while Claire Dodd, Arthur Pierson, Frank Conroy, Frank Albertson and Claude Gil-lingwater form a strong supporting cast. Edward Buzzell directed.

BOYD, O'BRIEN STAR IN NEW OIL NARRATIVE

A drama of rugged passion with oil derricks and oil drillers as a background, is "Flaming Gold," new R. K. O. feature which will come to the Broadway theater Wednesday and Thursday, it was announced today.

The new picture stars Bill Boyd, Mae Clarke and Pat O'Brien and from advance notices, the picture filled with excitement when gushers come in, refineries burn and men are blown to bits, is a new type of entertainment.

The story concerns two drillers, forced aside when big companies take over their lands, but who get financed for one last big effort in a Mexican oil field. Bill Boyd, married, learns suddenly that men are winking at one another when his wife passes by. He wonders why, and then, just as the picture comes to an exciting finish, the truth is forced on him.

Aside from the feature, "Do Nuts," a comedy, a Magic Carpet travelogue, "Playgrounds," and "Hey, Hey," a cartoon, also will be on the program, it was announced.

"WILD BOYS OF ROAD" TO SHOW HERE FRIDAY

"Wild Boys of the Road," the inside information on what happens to boys and girls who shift for themselves from one town to another, as they ride freight trains throughout the country, will be seen at the Broadway theater Friday and Saturday of next week, it was announced today.

The picture, unusual in its entertainment, is a Warner Brothers production, void of any great star's names, but which is now showing at both Warner Brothers Downtown and Hollywood theaters in Los Angeles.

It is the story of two boys, forced to leave home when their fathers are thrown out of work, who meet a girl hobo on the first train they hop. The three team up. Their ups and downs, their adventures as they ride from one town to the other will impress any audience, while at the same time, it is a proclamation to the younger generation which tells them that home is better for them, no matter what the difficulties.

Frankie Darro, Dorothy Coonan and Rochelle Hudson are featured. Miss Coonan was a dancer in "Gold Diggers of 1933."

Two Successive Bridge Luncheons Add Zest To Calendar

Just preceding her departure Thursday evening by boat for Seattle, Mrs. Ralph Mosher made a charming little social gesture of farewell to her friends, by joining with Mrs. Charles V. Davis in the second of a duo of smartly appointed bridge luncheons given in the Davis home, 1615 North Broadway.

To the many lovely autumn flowers at the command of the hostesses from their own gardens, were added others, including especially fine dahlias sent by Mrs. James Harding. Pompon varieties in both dahlias and chrysanthemums gave a vivid touch to the small tables arranged for serving luncheon to precede the afternoon of bridge.

Since both auction and contract were played, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Mosher awarded a prize at each table. Those scoring high and thereby securing the pretty gifts, included Mesdames Will A. Flood, Alice Harris, James Harding, Theo. A. Winbigger, Louis Moulton, E. M. Nealley and Samuel M. Davis.

Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Earl Morrow assisted at Thursday's function, while at the first of the twin parties held earlier in the week and also in the Davis home, Mrs. E. K. Kirby of Placentia, Miss Eleanor Metzgar and Mrs. Harding aided in various capacities.

This hospitality like its successor, included an appetizing luncheon menu served to the accompaniment of many flowers, some sent for the occasion by Mrs. A. J. Cruickshank and by Mrs. Harding. Contract bridge was played, with prizes for those scoring high at the individual tables. They included Mrs. John I. Clark, Mrs. R. O. Winckler, Mrs. Philip Hatfield, Mrs. J. H. Metzgar, Mrs. Ray Chandler, Mrs. Roy Hall and Mrs. Alex Brownridge.

In departing Thursday evening for Seattle, Mrs. Mosher expected to enjoy an extended visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hugh Campbell. Mrs. Campbell was formerly Miss Mollie Cobey Mosher.

Evening Party Yields Gifts in Glass for Guest of Honor

Among the enjoyable parties which have complimented Miss Doris Goff since announcement of her betrothal to Bruce Vegely, the latest and one of the pleasantest was that at which Mrs. C. W. Hoyle and Miss Jean Rowland entertained Thursday night in Mrs. Hoyle's home, 1417 Durant street.

The two young hostesses had a wealth of flowers at their command for decorating, using chrysanthemums in cheery autumn shades. Lending zest to the evening was the fact that as each guest arrived, she placed a ribboned parcel on a large table, which with its gleaming candles, proved quite as decorative as the flowers surrounding it. These packages held pieces of choice blue Morgantown glass for the honor guest, Miss Goff.

In bridge, both forms of which were played, Mrs. Bruce Monroe, scoring high in contract, and Mrs. Neal Ranney high in auction, received similar prizes with consolation gift awarded Miss Alice Hanson.

Mrs. Hoyle and Miss Rowland re-arranged card tables with snowy linens for serving an inviting salad course, making each table a bridal study with white tapered rising from fluted holders of clear cellophane and every decorative detail in white. They were assisted in serving by Mrs. Elliott Rowland and Miss Betty Rowland.

Sharing the compliment paid Miss Goff were her mother and sister, Mrs. Allan B. Goff and Miss Viva Goff, and also Miss Julia Bingham and Miss Marjorie Watkins of Laguna Beach; Mr. Vegely's mother, Mrs. Edward L. Vegely, Mrs. Elliott Rowland, Miss Betty Rowland, Mrs. Donald Harwood, Mrs. Frances Selway, Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. Milburn Harvey, Mrs. Bruce Monroe, Mrs. Roy Griset, the Misses Marguerite Lentz, Mary Read, Winifred Johnson, Jean Peacock, Alyce Majors, Mary Emil Majors, Lucy Holmes, Alice Hanson, Mary Jane Sturgeon, Frances Parks, Louise Leck, Santa Ana; Mrs. Fred Gregory, Costa Mesa; Mrs. Lee McClellan, Anaheim; Mrs. Robert Reed, Newport Beach; Mrs. Neal Ranney and Mrs. Kenneth Baird, Los Angeles; Mrs. William Hewitt, Hollywood, and Miss Betty Barkman, Glendale.

A delightful event of recent date was a dinner party in the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Torrens on the state highway near Tustin, complimentary to a group of visitors in this city, Mr. and Mrs. William Walkinshaw and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCrumb of Superior, Neb., and Mr. and Mrs. John Walkinshaw and small son William, of Fresno, Calif.

Autumn flowers were used in decorating for the delicious chicken dinner served. Mrs. Mary Adams and Mrs. John Thompson, sisters of Mrs. Torrens, and Miss Sadie McCaughy and Mrs. Lem Walkinshaw shared hostess duties.

In the group were Messrs. and Mesdames Scott Torrens, John Thompson, Lem Walkinshaw, John Walkinshaw, William Walkinshaw, Hugh McCrumb and Sterling Tipple; Mesdames Mary Adams, Annie Walkinshaw, Lizzie Downie; the Misses Margaret Walkinshaw, Sadie McCaughy, Marguerite Walkinshaw, Lila Adams, Zella McCaughy and Messrs. James Torrens, Delbert Thompson, Raymond Walkinshaw and Ralph Tipple.

Mr. and Mrs. John Walkinshaw have returned to their home in the north, but the visitors from Nebraska are planning to remain here for another week.

Mrs. C. F. Bennett talked on "The Old Homes of America," describing dwellings of the Cliff Dwellers, adobe homes of the Spanish race, log cabins of the early settlers, and brick buildings of later generations. Discussing "Homes of Today," Mrs. B. B. Kellogg spoke of the revival of the arts of quilt and rug making, and compared economical and industrial processes of today and yesterday.

In talking on "Present Day Architecture," Mrs. Menges compared types of architecture, bringing out attributes of a hospitable home. She added that the garden layout should be in harmony with the structure of the home itself.

The hostess trio served refreshments following the program.

Bride Rejoins Husband To Establish Home In This City

Arrival this week from Chicago of Mrs. Lewis Baltz to join Mr. Baltz in establishing a home in Santa Ana, completed a charming little romance recalling the mid-summer wedding of the young couple in this city.

Lewis Baltz arrived from Chicago a year ago to make his home with his uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Fred E. Eardl, 2162 North Main street, and engage in business here. He is proprietor of a service station at Nineteenth and Main streets. During the summer his fiancée, Miss Bernice Anderson, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Anderson of Chicago, came to California to spend her vacation as guest of Dr. and Mrs. Eardl.

The young people decided to wed before her return east, so on July 3 they spoke their vows at a quiet ceremony conducted by Dr. George A. Warner of First M. E. church, in the Eardl home. Mrs. Baltz left soon thereafter for Chicago where she was receptionist in the big Wurlitzer store. She has spent the intervening weeks in preparation for returning to California, and now the young people are ready to receive friends at a pleasant suite at 2036 North Main street.

Mr. Baltz is an affiliate of Sigma Chi fraternity of the chapter at University of Illinois where he had his college training.

Two Hostesses Extend Hospitalities to Bride-elect

Hostesses at two pretty affairs of recent date had arranged unusually pleasant hospitalities in honor of Miss Theola Ridgway, whose marriage to Herbert Holmes is to take place this season.

One of these was given by Miss Louise Bach, who entertained in the home of Mrs. James Bach, 729 Hickory street with an evening party. Bridge was played with the result that Miss Ella Pleis and Miss Ridgway scored first and second high and Miss Dorothy Johnson, low.

A dessert course was served at tables adorned with Tailsman roses and bridal theme placecards. Miss Ridgway was presented with an array of attractively wrapped gifts which proved to be kitchen accessories.

Invited to be Miss Bach's guests with Miss Ridgway were the Misses Ella Pleis, Vivian Fraser, Francis Marr, Grace Wilson, Charlotte Richards, Gertrude McConnell, Mrs. E. B. McCarter and Mrs. James Bach.

Club Party

Bridge occupied the group during the early afternoon, and when tallies were checked prizes for scoring high and low were awarded Mrs. Rudolph Hoehn and Mrs. Olin Swearingen. At this time Miss Ridgway was the recipient of a waffle iron, gift of the assembled guests.

Trio of Sisters Plan Delightful Party For Bride-elect

Although there has been no formal announcement of the engagement of Miss Henrietta Smith of Santa Ana and Lynn B. Wallace of Orange, friends aware of their plans for an early marriage, conspired to surprise Miss Smith Thursday evening with a shower of gifts when Mrs. F. W. Howard, Mrs. Ernest Winbiger and Mrs. Albert Wallace entertained at bridge in the Howard home, 2460 Helicon drive.

Zinnias and other autumn flowers were striking in the decorative theme employed by the sister hostesses as a setting for the bridge tables. Pretty pottery vases wrapped and tied to harmonize with this autumnal theme, were presented Mrs. Carl Nelson, Mrs. Esther Clark and Mrs. Norman Morgan, holders of special scores in bridge.

Award of prizes was signal for the presentation of Miss Smith of the shower presents. The hostesses and several of their guests had joined in selecting ea charming breakfast set, and others had chosen gay orange hued pottery to harmonize, so the gifts will make a cheerful and modern kitchen in the home to be established.

Concluding their hospitality, the hostesses re-arranged card tables, with a bridal motif stressed in decorations and appointments including the tulle-tied white candles which lighted the scene as a two-course refreshment menu was served.

Invited to share the hospitality of the three sisters, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Winbiger, were the honor guest, Miss Henrietta Smith, Mesdames Valmer Clark, William Castler, William Mize, Jack Hill, William West, Walter Hill, Norman Morgan, J. Many flowers were used about the house and to deck the three tables where guests found places by the pretty cards which later recorded their bridge scores. Mrs. Ada Bradford Hellis assisted her daughter in receiving guests and in serving luncheon.

Calory total, 400.

Serve this dinner to the family, adding either baked potatoes or dumplings with the chicken, a favorite dessert, pickles, bread and butter.

For this occasion use a straight oil French dressing for the diet salad, unless you happen to have a jar of mineral oil French dressing, mixed. The Roquefort part comes in by adding grated Roquefort to the dressing, or, the better way—sprinkling the lettuce with Roquefort, scraped from the piece with a fork, then the chilled dressing poured over.

Rebellious Permanents

If, for various and sundry reasons, your permanent wave refuses to behave, try rinsing it with 1/4 teaspoonful of what is commonly known as "water glass" added to the last rinse water. It makes the hair delightfully soft and pliable, and for graying hair is the perfect rinse.

Water glass is a soda solution, ordinarily used for preserving eggs. Ask for it under the name—it's inexpensive.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Apple Up-side-down Cake

2 ripe apples

1 tsp. cinnamon

2 tbsps. butter

1-8 cup brown sugar

1/4 cup Shake Part

1 cup shortening

1 cup sugar

2 eggs, well beaten

2 cups flour

2 tps. baking powder

1/4 tsp. salt

1/4 cup milk

1 tsp. vanilla.

Melt the butter in a large iron skillet, mix with the brown sugar and cinnamon and set off the fire. Cream the shortening, add sugar and continue creaming, working in the beaten eggs. Sift flour and measure. To sifted flour add all dry ingredients and sift 3 times. Work into the sugar mixture, alternating milk mixed with vanilla. Beat well before pouring over the apples. Bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes and serve with whipped cream or plain cream.

The contributor says that this cake is "delicious." I can well believe that—but the calories are something else again—almost 3400 of them, all husky, up-and-coming energy makers. The dessert serves ten, generously. Add an extra 100 calories for a heaping tablespoon of whipped cream.

At a revival until Monday.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Paul Goes To Antioch

Text: Acts 11:19-30; 12:25
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Oct. 15.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist
The evil that men do lives after them as well as the good they have done. Even when a man has been converted, the sins of his ignorance and blindness though they may be forgiven are not altogether wiped out in the seriousness of their consequences and results.

So, though Paul had been saved from the error of his persecuting zeal and had been brought into the light of the truth of the religion of love and grace, the effects of the persecution that he and others had exercised against the Christians went on.

One of these effects—a valuable thing in the light of Christian history—was the scattering of the Christians from Jerusalem. Some of these early Christians came to Antioch and it was here, we are told, that the followers of Jesus were first called "Christians."

This Antioch was the capital of Syria. It was situated on the river Orontes, 20 miles from the sea and about 300 miles north of Jerusalem. This city is to be distinguished from another Antioch—Antioch in Pisidia—which also appears in the life of Paul.

These two Antiochs were the most prominent of 16 cities of the same name throughout the then known world. They had been founded by Greek monarchs and named in their honor.

The emergence of Christianity in the Syrian Antioch is symbolic of the nature and place of Christianity in the world. Situated on the great lines of trade between east and west, Antioch was a capital of great prosperity and splendor.

Its colonnaded streets stretched for miles, and its public monuments and buildings were conspicuous as the survivals of an age of outward glory.

But the life of the city was full of corruption and the licen-

tiousness of its inhabitants was so much a byword in the ancient world that when men would point to the moral degradation of Rome, they were accustomed to say that the Orontes had overflowed the Tiber.

It seems necessary to grasp so much in the setting if we would understand the place that Antioch occupied in Paul's religious life and missionary journeys. This capital of licentious living became, also, the new capital of a world movement of vitalizing power.

Here in Antioch distinctive conquests of the Christian faith were begun as certain Greeks or Gentiles responded to Christian teaching. The report of this came to the Church at Jerusalem, and Barnabas was sent as a messenger and counselor to encourage those who had accepted the new faith.

We do not know a great deal concerning Barnabas, but what we do know marks him as a man of distinctive and very noble character. The record here is that "he was a good man, full of the Holy Spirit and of faith." He had proven that by a devotion in which he had consecrated all his wealth and property to the common good of the Christian Church.

Barnabas was among the first courageously to accept Paul when the erstwhile persecutor had professed conversion to the Christian way. The Christians at Jerusalem naturally feared and distrusted this man whom they had known as chief among their foes. But Barnabas had vouched for the reality of his change of heart; and now Barnabas goes in quest of Paul and, finding him at Tarsus, brings him to Antioch.

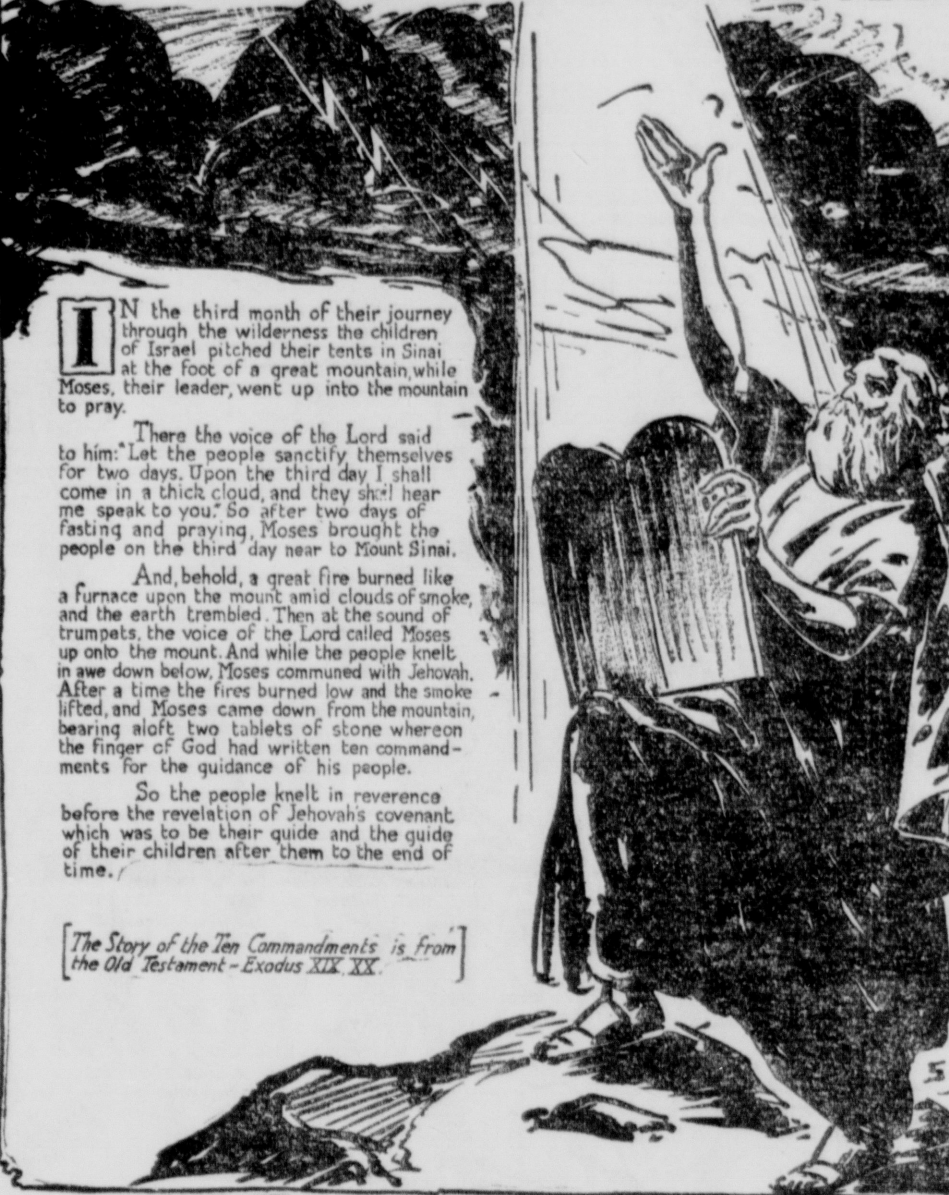

The Christians in Antioch, hearing of the distress of their fellow Christians in Jerusalem, contributed liberally to their relief, sending their gifts through Barnabas and Paul, who went to Jerusalem. The men returned shortly to Antioch ready to begin their first notable missionary journey, in which we shall find them well launched in the next lesson.

MINUTE STORIES from the BIBLE

The TEN COMMANDMENTS

IN the third month of their journey through the wilderness the children of Israel pitched their tents in Sinai at the foot of a great mountain, while Moses, their leader, went up into the mountain to pray.

There the voice of the Lord said to him: "Let the people sanctify themselves for two days. Upon the third day I shall come in a thick cloud, and they shall hear me speak to you." So after two days of fasting and praying, Moses brought the people on the third day near to Mount Sinai.

And, behold, a great fire burned like a furnace upon the mount amid clouds of smoke, and the earth trembled. Then at the sound of trumpets, the voice of the Lord called Moses up onto the mount. And while the people knelt in awe down below, Moses communed with Jehovah. After a time the fires burned low and the smoke lifted, and Moses came down from the mountain, bearing aloft two tablets of stone whereon the finger of God had written ten commandments for the guidance of his people.

So the people knelt in reverence before the revelation of Jehovah's covenant, which was to be their guide and the guide of their children after them to the end of time.

[The Story of the Ten Commandments is from the Old Testament—Exodus XIX-XX]

THE BETTER METHOD FOR LABOR

The news comes out of Washington today that it is proposed to deny relief money to those strikers where it has been determined by the Labor department that they have struck without justification.

We were rather surprised, a few days ago, when the news came from the representatives of the Federal government here in California that strikers were to receive aid, and that questions were not to be asked as to the cause of the strike, or words to that effect. As we pointed out in discussing the question on the day following this news, the granting of the strikers' aid would enable them to carry on for a very considerable length of time, whereas, under other circumstances, their needs forced them to capitulate. We were saying this regardless of the merits of any controversy.

It seems to us that there is a very clear way out for the wage earners of this country, in the light of what the President has said. He has declared that the Federal government will see that people do not go hungry or cold this winter. Under the NRA, he is endeavoring to get as many plants busy as possible, through the employment of the largest number of people. They are working out as fast as the government can, a program for justice for wage earners as well as employers.

Now if the wage earners would establish themselves fairly on the President's proclamation, and continue to work for what may seem to them unjust wages or smaller wages by far than they should work for, they have thereby such a claim to the fulfillment of the President's promise as to put them in a strong strategic moral position following their employment, if their employment is seasonal. If it is not seasonal, it can be rectified in a comparatively brief period of time and save the strike. The claim of men to the fulfillment of the President's promise certainly should be predicated upon their having done their part to carry out the intent and purpose of the President's program.

We are not saying this with the thought, for a moment, that the men are in the wrong, but we are saying it because, whether right or wrong, there is a better remedy before them. The only way the national administration can get help for the unemployed is from the employer or from capital. And the capitalist who has treated his workers fairly and has followed out the spirit of the NRA, when he is being assessed to meet the needs of the unemployed, will join with the unemployed to insist that the ones who have not done their part shall in some way or other be forced to meet the consequences.

We would not wonder at all but that certain elements, who are desirous of having public sentiment aroused against labor unions, are parties to actually provoking them to strike just at this time. One thing needful during these crucial days is for all to work in harmony, as far as possible, and correct injustice by means, the use of which will keep public sympathy and not drive it away.

Denmark's citizens are going to have gas masks to prepare themselves against chemical warfare—and the talk coming from Europe's statesmen.

BASEBALL THE MAJOR INTEREST

The first game to be played in Washington in the world series was of such general and paramount interest that the Committee on Banking and Currency adjourned its hearings into the affairs of the big bankers at noon that all might go to the ball game in the afternoon.

To many serious and thoughtful people this is a reminder of the days of ancient Rome when the high officials of state sat at their elaborate feasts or attended the gladiatorial contests while thousands of the common people were starving because of the delay of an Alexandrian corn ship. And they are disturbed by the seeming indifference of our political leaders who neglected pressing duties of state to join the crowds attending a ball game.

These are trying days. The world has passed through many crises in the past; but certainly there has never been a time in the past history of mankind when the souls of multitudes of mankind were tried more than they are today. We can appreciate the feeling of those who sense the burden of these times, and who deplore any tendency to minimize them or to blink at them.

But the situation of today is somewhat different from that which existed in the days of ancient Rome. Society in those days was divided into three groups, the patricians, the plebeians, and slaves. The first group held the fate and the destiny of the other two in its absolute control. For the latter there was no hope. Nothing that they could do could add one single benefit to their state of mind or body. They were doomed to a life of serfdom and futility. Their only satisfactions were the satisfactions of the mind and the spirit; and these were by no means of small value in their oppression and their destitution.

With us, in a democracy, there need not be the gloom of futility. In the hands of the common people is the power to make or mar their own condition. If privileges intended for all become the exclusive possession of the exploiting few the power to change without violent revolution is in their hands. It is the sense of that power, perhaps not fully conscious of its possession, which makes it possible for men and women to dismiss their worries and their burdens for the moment to attend a ball game. The people of this country can carry on along the even tenor of their way because the remedy for destitution and social maladjustments are in their hands. It is better so than that they should shun all recreation and become the victims of despair.

A SHORT BIBLE

A great deal of interest has been awakened through the publication of a short Bible by two professors of the Divinity School of Chicago University, Dr. Goodspeed and Dr. Smith.

There will be a great deal of criticism on the part of those who believe every portion of the Bible is equally inspired. Yet all readers of the Bible have found portions of it either difficult or unedifying. The genealogies scattered through the books of the Bible, the Levitical laws with which very few readers and lovers of the Bible are familiar, the repetitions such as are found in the books of Kings and the books of Chronicles are little read by Bible readers.

Then, too, there is the lack of chronological arrangement of the books which makes it difficult for the average reader to get the connections. It will come as a surprise to those who may chance to see a copy of the Short Bible to find the prophecy of Amos first and the book of Genesis seventeenth in the arrangement. Yet this is the order in which the books were written or compiled as to time.

The authors specifically say that this Short Bible is not to take the place of the Bible that has become familiar to us, but it is only intended to be an introduction to the reading and the study of the Bible as we know it. As such it will be a very valuable and instructive addition to Biblical literature.

The Bible is the most widely read, and the most widely circulated book in the world. It has become dear to millions of people. Anything that makes the book more understandable and more interesting should be welcomed. This Short Bible certainly will do that. Translated as it is into modern English, with an arrangement in order of time, and with a brief explanation of each book, this Short Bible is highly commendable. Every lover of the Bible ought to have it beside the family Bible.

A million copies of Hitler's book, "My Fight," have been published. What a bonfire they would make!

GERMANY WITHDRAWS FROM LEAGUE

Yesterday France, England, and the United States joined in an ultimatum to Germany. The exact nature of the note sent is not known but it undoubtedly cautioned Germany against rearming. Today Germany withdrew from the League of Nations and the Disarmament Conference.

This sequence of events was practically scheduled last March. When Hitler came into power in Germany, the German people practically served notice on the allies that they would tolerate no further dictation from that source. The burdens of the war have rested heavily upon Germany. The worm has turned.

International European relationships look very bad today. One is not pessimistically out of balance who feels that only a miracle can save the nations of Europe from another war. What nations will be drawn in is a matter for speculation. The situation is sad and aggravating for it need not have developed as it has. A little more magnanimity, a proper recognition of psychology in 1919 would have saved the world the calamitous reckoning which it faces today.

Make News Public

The nationwide contest for plans to end crime and racketeering, held by the United States Flag association, has been won by a gentleman who suggests strict censorship of criminal charges, criminal news and reports of criminal trials.

Much as the newspaper fraternity would be pleased to accept this program as a deterrent to crime, long experience tells us it will not work.

Until the causes of crime are removed from the bedrock of American society we shall continue to have gangs and racketeers; and we will not know how menacing they are unless our newspapers tell us about them.

The old familiar theory that everything will be all right if only we ignore the existence of evil is again set forth by the winner of this contest. This theory mistakes the symptom for the disease and tries to "fight typhoid with an aspirin tablet."

It is dreary business to see a wealth of crime news in the papers. Every conscientious newspaper man will agree to this. But the solution of crime and racketeering can never lie in the suppression of crime news. The editor of this paper is impotent time and time again to keep some story of crime out of the paper because of the disgrace its telling would entail. We believe the publicity given such news acts as a deterrent in more times than we know of.

The solution of crime of all kinds goes right to the fundamentals of our social organizations. We should face this fact.

Freedom of Press Belongs to People

Whenever the United States destroys the freedom of press then will perish the soul of the nation as we know it. The newspapers of the United States have made people think. They have held in check both the demagogue and the crook. The collective voice of the press is the true voice of the nation.

Imagine the panic that would ensue in this country if no newspaper were to publish today! Fear would run rampant throughout the land if the people could not pick up their newspapers and learn the exact details of the state of the nation.

The newspapers of the country have subscribed to all the NRA requirements as to hours of labor and minimum wages. They have not asked even for a "code of ethics" with which to secure fair competition. They do ask, however, that no machinery be devised by the Government that could be used to pave the way for governmental dictation of editorial opinion.

Unless this guarantee is forthcoming it is the duty of the newspapers to take the issue directly to the people. Newspapers have no right to surrender the freedom of the press, for the freedom of the press is a valuable possession of the people.

PRESCRIPTION

If you wake up at night
With a load on your chest,
While sleep takes its flight
And your soul is distressed.
If you feel down and out
And quite hopelessly beaten.
Don't worry, old scout,
It is something you've eaten.

If your fears multiply
And anxieties double,
If your dull jaundiced eye
Can you see nothing but trouble,
If you think that you're licked
And moan forth your disgust
It is safe to predict
You are just off your diet.

If your future looks blue
And you inwardly quail,
Feeling certain that you
Were predestined to fail,
If you think you're bereft
Of your nerve and ambition
And there's not a thing left,
It's your mental condition.

If candy and cake
Are the things that you crave,
You never can make
Your stomach behave.
But if wisely you eat
And let nobody hurry you,
Your sleep will be sweet
And nothing can worry you.

What is an accessory to crime? And does the seller of a machine gun think it will be used in Sunday school?

Liquor is an awful curse because it kills hundreds. And fast cars are a blessing because they kill 26,000 a year.

With repeal to make fool driving more so, it might be a good idea to use some R.F. C. money for new morgues.

There isn't much hope of disarming criminals if the law can't even keep its prisoners disarmed.

Getting part of that relief money is simple. You just apply for it and wait a year for the red tape to unwind.

THINGS MUST BE LOOKING UP WHEN THE AVERAGE WOMAN'S CHIEF WORRY IS FAT.

Editors do their best. The reason magazines print mediocre stuff is because nobody offers them anything better.

There's one way to get that home-loan money distributed more quickly. Pretend its purpose is to help Frenchmen.

As we understand Elder Will Hays, it isn't a naughty picture if the baby dies in time for her to marry a nice man.

AMERICANISM: A man shortening his life to earn more money; a woman spending the money for show-off trinkets.

No wonder the French hate us. They used to get four bits for pictures like those in the movie magazines.

Peace is that nice mental state you have when you decide to quit trying to quit smoking.

But would Americans favor disarmament if they had France where Mexico is and Germany where Canada is?

THE EASIEST WAY TO MAKE THE HOME ATMOSPHERE COOL IS TO BRING OLD FRIENDS TO DINNER WITHOUT PREVIOUS WARNING.

The coal business is all settled except the bill, and the public will settle that.

Still every generation in the last 8,000 years thought the world was going to the dogs.

When you consider the mess Admiral Byrd is leaving at home, running away isn't so very heroic.

A man isn't really great until he is quoted as the author of any wisecrack he quotes.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE JUG HAS TWO HANDLES

Yesterday I spoke of a type of astute, or seemingly astute, industrialist who, without genuine belief in or sympathy for the basic aims of the NRA, is backing it because it sees in its relaxation of the anti-trust laws a chance to consolidate the dominance of big business in the national life.

This type has seen, of course, that the NRA jug has two handles, one for labor and one for business, but, without a too obvious effort, this type of industrialist is seeking to knock the labor handle off the jug and fasten his grip firmly on the business handle.

That way lies suicide for business.

Business cannot get a profitable deal out of the national future unless labor gets a square deal out of it. And to the credit of the New Deal let it be said that it has made an effort to provide both a profitable deal of business and a square deal for labor.

The other day I spoke of the urgent necessity of finding some new and better way of settling business-labor conflicts of interest than the strike and the lockout. I expressed concern over the possibility of an orgy of strikes if the national struggle for recovery should proceed too slowly or without due regard for labor's basic interests.

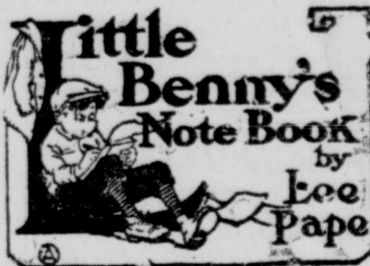

I suggested that conventional trade unionism must realize that it may need reform quite as much as conventional business, industry and finance need reform. And that all parties to the single enterprise of national production should face fresh problems with fresh minds in an effort to substitute industrial government for industrial warfare.

I said as much to a group of 250 national business leaders the other night. The storm of applause that greeted the statement that trade unionism was challenged to reform equally with business, industry and finance made me suspicious that my statement was interpreted as a slam at the American Federation of Labor. I want to correct any such impression with the readers of these articles if they have had any such reaction to my earlier statement.

I do not believe the American Federation of Labor is the last word in labor policy. I think it has lagged in the pioneer era of the machine age, in some of its policies, long after the machine age had moved toward maturity, just as business, industry and banking have lagged in their policies. And labor must join with business, industry and banking in an honest effort to readjust itself to the new age. But, all this aside, the American Federation of Labor has been and will be a profoundly stabilizing factor in American life during the stressful years through which we have been passing and shall continue to pass. It deserves the moral backing of every enlightened business man, industrialist and banker in the country.

With the many grave blunders that organized business, industry and finance have made, it is hardly square shooting to demand that organized labor be flawless in all its acts. Business must play ball with labor. There are ample forces inside labor that will press for utter open mindedness in readjustments of organization and policy.

Negotiations were under way by the Tustin school board for the purchase of additional ground upon which to build a kindergarten department, following action taken at the recent citizens' meeting under the chairmanship of S. W. Stanley.

Plans were being made by Victor Walker and Robert Gramm for a banquet to welcome the return of "Gevvy" Cravath, manager of the Philadelphia National League Ball club, upon his return from a hunting trip into Humboldt county in companionship with George Spangler.

Jimmie Austin, veteran third baseman of the St. Louis American League Baseball club, was in the city en route from Los Angeles to Laguna Beach where he planned to spend the winter months.

As their canning season would close in two weeks, executives of the J. E. Taylor and Company, announced that they would ship twenty carloads of goods this season to eastern markets, an increase of five carloads over the previous year. Even with this increase, the company expected to find itself five carloads short on its orders.

QUALITY

If I could give a child just one gift of the spirit, I would give him that subtlest of all elements, quality. It is difficult to put into words, but once you see it you know it for what it is, the most precious gift of all that can be acquired or inherited by a human child.

One child is healthy, intelligent, able, seemingly all that can be desired, but there is another child beyond him, healthy, fit and able, and of a quality that lifts your soul when you look into his eyes. Maybe both children get the same high marks in school, 90 to 100 every time. On the surface they are even, one as fine as the other, but the teacher will tell you differently.

"Not at all alike, George gets high marks, but Steven does better work, work of a higher quality." Pressed to explain, she finds it difficult. The choice of a word, the fitness of a phrase, the selection and the arrangement of facts, even in an examination paper, tell the story. One has facts, the other has facts and quality.

When it comes to character, the distinction is more marked. Quality is a spiritual quality. That's as near as we can get to making it clear. It affects thinking and guides behavior. Two children rise to offer their chairs to the elderly person who has entered the room. One does so with correctness, but the other does it with grace, with charm, with heartfelt consideration. The first one wins respect, but the one with the quality wins affection and respect. He is the leader whom men follow gladly.

Quality cannot always be cultivated. If the child was born without the grace of that gift, the best we can hope for is to establish ability and character in him. But if he has even a trace of quality we can cultivate it to distinction. Give such a child a good background. That means surround him with pleasant people, good manners, good living folk who have an idea beyond getting and eating daily bread. Give him good books. Let him hear good talk. Teach him to appreciate quality in other folk and be careful not to lead him astray by admiring what is shoddy in people and things. Things count, too. Quality in furniture and rugs and pictures stimulates quality of thinking and living. Handling beautiful things teaches gentleness and the understanding of beauty. For quality has to do with beauty, that intangible loveliness that draws the spirit of man up and away from ugliness toward something that is a satisfying delight.

Money has little to do with it in spite of what most people think. Priscilla, the Puritan maiden, had it, as had the arbutus she gathered in the melting snow of spring. George and Martha—there was quality. And the oak that stood a hundred years. Quality enables one to endure, to take life with a gallant gesture, with an open hand and a gladsome heart. Quality can stand alone, if need be, can lead when occasion demands, can serve when opportunity offers. It can do anything but stoop. It always soars.

Fairies who visit cradles, angels administering to the newborn, if you have the gifts to bestow, let the first be Quality.
